

REPORT
OF THE
ADJUTANT GENERAL
OF THE
STATE OF TENNESSEE,
OF THE
MILITARY FORCES OF THE STATE,
FROM 1861 TO 1866.

NASHVILLE, TENN.:
S. C. MERCER.....PRINTER TO THE STATE

1866.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS,

STATE FORCES OF TENNESSEE,

Adjutant General's Office,

Nashville, Tenn., March 1, 1866.

WM. G. BROWNLOW, Governor and Commander in Chief of Tennessee State Forces :

GOVERNOR—In obedience to an act passed in both Houses of the General Assembly of the State of Tennessee, I have the honor to submit the following Report of the Regiments from this State, in the United States Army, for the years 1861-'62-'63-'64 and '65.

JAMES P. BROWNLOW,

Brigadier and Adjutant General.

REPORT.

The late gigantic war for universal freedom, and the establishment of the great principles of a republican form of government was commenced, finding the Volunteer State completely manacled by Isham G. Harris and the traitorous members of the Legislature of 1861. Unlike her sister States of this great Republic, her volunteers were not induced to enter her service by enticing State bounties or pensions, but were compelled to escape the rebel videttes by way of the cold and desolate peaks of the Cumberland ; and to-day she can with pride count her thirty thousand who enlisted in the grand army of the Republic under such trying circumstances. She has to mourn her thousands, who failed to make their escape, and perished in Southern prison pens. Thousands went to Kentucky, and enlisted in Kentucky regiments, before the organization of Tennessee regiments was commenced, and even after, being compelled to do so for want of necessary clothing and provisions. Many also enlisted in Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois regiments, of whom it is impossible to give any official account. Owing to the irregular manner in which Tennessee regiments were recruited and organized, it is impossible to give as complete and correct a history as is desirable. Yet no pains have been spared to accomplish that end. On entering upon my duties as Adjutant General, in March, 1865, I found the office almost destitute of the requisite information with which to make a correct report, although my predecessor, Major-General Gillem, and Colonel E. S. Richards, had used every endeavor to obtain the necessary information, during their term of office. All the regiments were in active field service, and although requests were frequently forwarded for a synopsis of a history of each regiment, battalion, battery, and company, yet they were seldom complied with, as some of the regiments, especially the cavalry, were almost constantly on the march. Since the cessation of hostilities, I have used every exertion to obtain information, and to that end I issued the following circular, which was forwarded to every commanding officer whose address I could learn :

Circular, }
No. 2. }
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
STATE OF TENNESSEE, }
Nashville, June 14, 1865.

As many troops are being daily mustered out of the service, I desire to impress upon commanders of Tennessee regiments the necessity of promptitude in forwarding to this office all regimental records, books, papers, banners, trophies (with name of captors thereon), and, in fine, every thing that may be of aid in perpetuating the name and honorable record of the military organization of this State.

This is no common demand, and it is hoped that strenuous efforts will be made to collect and forward all such, the sight and mention of which, years hence, will swell the hearts of not only her sons and daughters, but all interested in the welfare of the Volunteer State.

Up to the present time, owing to our own beautiful State having been a part of the late scene of strife, it has been impracticable to secure such relics of valor as could have been desired ; but now that peace and harmony is again established, and it is expected that all will soon return to their respective homes, let posterity know of you before disorganizing.

By order of the Governor.

JAMES P BROWNLOW,
Brigadier and Adjutant General of Tennessee.

Circular, }
No. 3. }
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Nashville, October 6, 1865.

SIR—As I propose making for publication a report of the Military status of Tennessee, past and present, and in order that the organization which you formerly commanded may be represented in an honorable light, I desire that you make, and forward with as little delay as practicable, a short Military History thereof.

In many instances the regimental and company records and colors have, instead of being turned over to the mustering officer, been retained, and are still in the possession of commanding officers. Should you have any such, you will please forward them to this office immediately, via Express.

Many commendable acts of organizations and individuals have been noticed by orders and circulars from Commanding Generals ; any such that you may have in your possession, or be cognizant of, will, if made known to this office, in said report, appear creditably to those concerned.

To avoid delay in compiling said report, I beg leave to again call your attention to the necessity of promptitude in complying with above.

Very respectfully your obedient servant,

JAMES P BROWNLOW,

Adj't General of Tennessee.

In reply to these circulars, I received from several officers reports of the service rendered by their respective commands, while others did not reply, which fact will account for some regiments having a more complete history than others.

Many men were enlisted at Cumberland Gap, in the first, second, third, fifth, and sixth infantry, and in the first and second cavalry, in the year 1862, General G. W Morgan commanding, who died or were captured on Morgan's celebrated retreat to the Ohio River, who, I am sorry to inform you, are not accounted for on the muster rolls of their commands; which renders it very difficult for their bounty, pay and pension to be collected, and also reduces the number of troops, with which Tennessee should be credited. And I take this method of informing all concerned, that bounty, pay, and pension, in such cases, can be collected, by making out proper claims, with the affidavits of the officers in command at the time of the capture or the death of the soldier. This was the case of the ill-fated Thirteenth Tennessee Cavalry, nearly all of whom were massacred at Fort Pillow, by Forrest's command; and I regret exceedingly that it is not in my power.

TREASONABLE CONDUCT OF GOVERNOR HARRIS.

The call of the late lamented President Lincoln upon this State for volunteers to aid in quelling the rebellion, was answered by an insolent and treasonable refusal from Governor Harris to discharge a duty which his obligation as a citizen and his oath of office both bound him to perform. This occurred in April, 1861. The State was at once the theatre of fierce excitement. A mock election was held after the State had been transferred to the Richmond Junta by secret treaty, and Tennessee was officially declared to be a member of the Southern Confederacy. Had a patriot at that time been at the helm of our State, the appalling shipwreck which she suffered would have been avoided. To the great injury and reproach of the people, their Executive was a man false to every principle of private and public honor, untrue to every trust as a citizen and an officer; with morals so perverted that he studiously preferred to do wrong, even when it was easier to do right; a libertine in private life, a robber of the public funds, a preacher of sedition, a perjurer who violated every obligation and broke every oath, a conspirator who for his own advantage sacrificed the fortunes and the lives of thousands whose confidence he had won. A career so devoid of virtue and honor fitly terminated in disgrace, for at the first approach of the army of that country which he had insulted and deserted, Governor Harris fled with precipitation, leaving his victims to the mercy of a foe whom he had not the courage to face.

The resolution, as passed by the General Assembly, requires the Adjutant General to furnish a roster of the colored troops from this State. I regret very much that it is impossible to comply with the requisition. It would be but simple justice to the colored soldier, who with undaunted courage faced the deadly missiles of the traitorous foe, and assisted in defending the State Capital against the enemies of freedom, to place his name on the Roll of Honor; but this is impossible. The colored troops were enlisted as United States Colored Infantry, and were not credited to the State. The rolls of the different regiments were never forwarded to this office, but sent to the Adjutant General's Office at Washington City, where they properly belong.

This Report shows the following number of troops raised in Tennessee for the United States Service, viz :

Eight Infantry Regiments.

Eight Mounted Infantry Regiments.

Twelve Cavalry Regiments.

Five Batteries of Light Artillery.

In addition to the above troops, there were enlisted in this State by United States recruiting officers, 17,770 colored troops, which were not reported to this office, and are not included, accordingly, in this record.

From various sources, believed to be perfectly reliable, it is estimated, also, that some 7,000 Tennesseans enlisted in the Kentucky Federal Regiments, and were credited to that State.

I have the honor to be your obedient servant,

JAMES P BROWNLOW,

Brigadier and Adjutant General of Tennessee.

MEMORANDUM.

The organization of the First Tennessee Infantry was made by Colonel R. K. Byrd, at Camp Dick Robinson, Kentucky, in August, 1861. This regiment did distinguished service in the war, and fought with great gallantry at the memorable battle of Mill Springs, Ky., where General Felix K. Zollicoffer and other leading citizens of Tennessee perished on the rebel side, and in which Major-General Geo. H. Thomas won the first of that series of splendid victories, ending with the battle of Nashville, which contributed so largely to the overthrow of the rebellion. This regiment was in the expedition into North-Western Virginia, and subsequently entered East Tennessee, under Major-General Burnside. While at Cumberland Gap, a detachment of this and the Second Regiment, consisting of sixty-nine men, led by Captain Myers and Lieutenant Rogers, captured an important outpost of the rebels without the loss of a man. For this exploit, a complimentary order was read on dress parade, by order of General Morgan, Sept. 1, 1862.

SECOND REGIMENT.

The rolls of this very efficient Regiment are defective—a large portion of them having been captured November 6th, 1863, at Rogersville, Tennessee. The following is a list of its

FIELD AND STAFF OFFICERS.

MEMORANDA.

The Second East Tennessee Volunteer Infantry was recruited and organized at Camp Dick Robinson, Ky.; mustered into service to date from the 28th of September, 1861; left Camp Dick Robinson the 18th of October, 1861; marched to Wildcat, Ky., to meet the rebel forces under Zollicoffer. After said Wildcat fight, marched to London, Ky.; remained there until the 5th of December, 1861; marched thence to Somerset, Ky.; was at the battle of Mill Springs, Ky. Left Mill Springs on the 21st January, 1862, and marched to Cumberland Ford, Ky. Left Cumberland Ford on the 7th of March, and marched across the mountains, via Boston, Ky., to Big Creek Gap, routed and captured a rebel cavalry force under command of Lt.

Col. J. F. White; destroyed a large amount of quartermaster and commissary stores; captured eighty-nine horses and mules, and a large amount of small arms, ammunition, &c. Returned to Cumberland Ford, Ky.; remained there until about the first of June, 1862; then marched via of Boston, Ky., Big Creek Gap, &c., to Cumberland Gap; arrived there on the 18th of June, 1862; remained there until the 17th of September following, when the Federal forces under command of General George W. Morgan evacuated the Gap; marched thence through the north-eastern portion of Kentucky to the Ohio River; crossed the Ohio at Wheelersburg; marched thence via of Ciotaville, Oak Hill, Gallapolis, Point Pleasant, Charleston, &c., to Saline Salt Works in the Kanawha Valley, West Virginia; left Kanawha Valley the first of November, 1862; marched thence to Point Pleasant, Ohio; thence by water to Louisville, Ky.; thence marched by land to Murfreesboro, Tenn.; participated in the battle of Stone River; remained at Murfreesboro until the 10th of March, 1863; returned thence to Kentucky for the purpose of being mounted, which was done about the first of June, 1863. It remained in Kentucky and participated in divers engagements with the rebel forces under Pegram, Scott, &c., until the 4th of July, when it left Somerset, Ky., in pursuit of the rebel General Morgan, in his raid through Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio: participated in the pursuit; was present at Salineville when Morgan was captured; returned to Kentucky via Cincinnati, Ohio; joined the forces then organizing at Stanford, Ky., under Gen. Burnside, for the Campaign of East Tennessee; was in the advance of Burnside's forces at Wolf Creek, and at Loudon, Tenn.; thence to Knoxville and from Knoxville to Cumberland Gap when it was surrendered by the rebel Gen. Phrasier; returned then to Knoxville; took the advance of the column that moved into upper East Tennessee; brought on and participated in the battle of Blue Springs; pursued the retreating rebel forces under Gens. Jones, Williams and Jackson, until it drove their pickets in at Abingdon, Va.; destroyed a large amount of quartermaster and commissary stores, cars, &c.; destroyed the railroad at Bristol and other points; returned to Rogersville, Tenn., where the regiment, by an unfortunate mistake of Col. Garrard, 7th Ohio Cavalry, was captured on the 6th of November, 1863, by the forces under the rebel Gen. Jones. After the capture of the greater portion of the regiment, one hundred and seventeen men, most of whom had been captured with the regiment, but soon after made their escape, reported at Knoxville, and were on duty there during the siege up to the 31st of November. Thence they marched to Clinton and skirmishing with Gen. Wheeler's forces for three days and nights on the way, and capturing a number of men, horses, small arms, &c. Col. Melton gathered of the remnants his regiment, and escorted Gen. Burnside to Camp Nelson, Ky.; returned from there to Rogersville and reported to Gen. Carter, Provost Marshal General of East Tennessee. The regiment was detailed as Provost Guards to do duty at Sevierville, Maryville, Clinton, and Maynardsville, which duty it performed until Wheeler's raid through East Tennessee, in September, 1864, when a garrison of twenty-eight men were captured after a resistance of six hours at Maryville. The remaining detachments were ordered immediately to Lee's Ferry, on Clinch to harass Wheeler's forces. About 12 o'clock at night, the regiment fell in between the two columns of Wheeler's command and moved on in that position until daylight, when it was charged by the enemy, and after a short resistance in a hand to hand fight, against at least ten to one, it drove the rebels back some half mile. Finding themselves menaced in front with a large force and in rear by some 1500 men, and seeing that further resistance was hopeless, our troops retreated in good order, with the loss of but one man killed. The regiment then returned to Knoxville, where it remained until the 6th of October, 1864, when it was mustered out of service, retaining only 106 of the original number.

MEMORANDA.

The Third Tennessee Infantry was organized at Flat Lick, Ky, by Col. L. C. Houck and Lieut.-Col. Chiles, March, 1862. The materials gathered of its course are frequently very defective, although it saw much hard service. Among its many conflicts with the rebels, was its fight at Richmond, Ky. The battalion on that occasion was led by Col. Chiles. The following order from Maj.-Gen. Nelson, complimenting our soldiers for their honorable conduct, was read on parade :

General Orders } HEAD-QUARTERS OF THE ARMY OF KENTUCKY, }
No. 2. } RICHMOND, KY., 26 August, 1862. }

On Saturday, the 23d inst., the 7th Kentucky Cavalry, under Colonel Metcalfe, together with a battalion of Houck's 3d Tennessee Regiment, under Lieut.-Col. Chiles, attacked the enemy at Big Hill, in Rockcastle county. Col. Metcalfe led the attack with much gallantry, but had the mortification to find that not more than 100 of his Regiment followed him; the remainder, at the first cannon shot, turned tail and fled like a pack of cowards, and are now dispersed over a half dozen counties, some fleeing as far as Paris.

All Provost Marshals are hereby ordered to arrest and commit to jail any of this Regiment, officers or men, who may be found, under any pretence, to be in their neighborhoods, and to report their names and rank to the Adjutant General at these Head-Quarters, and to hold them subject to orders.

The conduct of the Tennessee battalion, under Lieut.-Col. Chiles, presents a refreshing contrast to the foregoing. They met the enemy bravely, checked his advance, rescued Col. Metcalfe, abandoned by his own Regiment, and, though too few to retrieve the action, at least saved the honor of our arms. Lieut.-Col. Chiles will accept the thanks of the Major General, and convey to his officers and soldiers his high appreciation of their gallantry and good conduct.

By order of Maj.-Gen. NELSON, commanding.

J. MILLS KENDRICK,

A. A. G., and Chief of Staff.

The Third Infantry fought the enemy at London, Ky., and at Dog Creek, Ten., below Nashville in 1863, while pursuing Wheeler's forces. At Resacca, Ga., May 14, it lost two excellent officers — Capt. W. C. Haworth, Co. K, and 2d Lieut. W. L. Merideth, Co. H. Both these officers were killed in action. On the same day, Lieut. Alfred Cross received a mortal wound while in action, and died on the 26th of the same month.

MEMORANDUM.

The Fourth Tennessee Infantry was recruited under the direction of Col. Danie Stover, of Carter County, Tenn., at Louisville, in the Spring of 1863. It was composed wholly of exiles from East Tennessee, who were brought out of the rebel lines by officers and pilots sent in for that perilous undertaking. The marches of the various companies were made entirely by night, the men lying concealed in caves and in the forests during the day to elude the pursuit of the rebel conscript officers. On the 29th of May the regiment left Louisville, and was mustered into the United States service in the June following. On the 9th of September, 1863, the regiment, under command of Major M. L. Patterson, marched to McMinnville, Tenn., when, on the 3d of October following, after two hours hard fighting against a rebel force of ten thousand men, under General Wheeler, it was captured and paroled. The rebels robbed the soldiers of their money, clothing, shoes, watches, and other valuables, and turned them loose hatless, shoeless, and almost naked. Major Patterson and Captain (afterwards Colonel) Reeves, with forty men, returned to Nashville and the remainder of the regiment, with few exceptions returned to their homes in East Tennessee, then occupied by General Burnside. The regiment was thus completely broken up for the time. Upon the arrival of Major Patterson in Nashville, a Court of Inquiry was appointed to examine into the circumstances connected with the surrender of the post at McMinnville. The investigation lasted several days, and the proceedings were sent to Major-General Thomas, who thereupon issued the following order:

GENERAL ORDER NO. 264.

The record of a Court of Inquiry, convened to investigate the conduct of Major Patterson, Fourth East Tennessee Volunteers, and the circumstances attending the surrender, on the 3d of October, of the post and garrison at McMinnville, of which he was the commanding officer, having been carefully examined by the General Commanding, he is satisfied that Major Patterson acted to the best of his judgment, and is therefore exonerated from all charges in connection therewith.

By command of MAJOR-GENERAL THOMAS.

[Signed]

C. GODDARD, A. A. G.

Major Patterson proceeded to Camp Nelson, Ky., to reorganize the regiment, where many of the soldiers reported immediately for duty, the paroles being invalid, being given in violation of the Cartel. On the 20th of January, 1864 the regiment was assigned to the First Brigade, Third Division, Twenty Third Army Corps. On the 20th of February, a brigade of the enemy's cavalry charged on our pickets south of the Holston river. The rebels were driven back, losing several killed and fifteen prisoners. Our loss was two killed and three wounded. On the withdrawal of Major-General Schofield's army from upper East Tennessee, the regiment was sent to Loudon, and three companies, under Major Reeves, to Kingston.

Major Patterson, being promoted to the Lieutenant-Colonelcy, was detached to command the brigade, with headquarters at Loudon. Here the regiment remained on duty until November, 1864, when the post was broken up, and the troops ordered to Knoxville. Lieutenant-Colonel Patterson was put in command of a brigade consisting of the Fourth Tennessee and Third North-Carolina Infantry, and marched through the mountains, without baggage or rations, except what our troops could gather on the route, to Paint Rock, N. C., for the purpose of cutting off the retreat of the rebels from General Stoneman, who was to attack them about Union or Carter Stations. On their march they skirmished occasionally with rebel scouts, and captured fifteen of their number. They also routed the rebels at Warm Springs, and captured a large quantity of salt. The expedition ended about the 10th of January. Major Reeves took three hundred men and marched to Greenville, to hold the election for the ratification of the amended Constitution, February 22, 1865. On their way, they had two fights with the rebels, who had determined to prevent the election, but without avail. On the reorganization of the army, the Fourth Tennessee Infantry was incorporated with the Third Brigade, Fourth Division of the Army of the Cumberland. It then marched to the passes of the Blue Ridge Mountains, on the North Carolina and Virginia border, to protect the rear of General Stoneman's expedition, then penetrating the heart of North Carolina. It was stationed at Taylorsville, and remained there until after the surrender of the rebel army under General Lee. Thence it went to Jonesboro, where it performed post duty until it was ordered to Nashville, in July, to be mustered out.

Colonel Daniel Stover, who organized the regiment, fell a prey to consumption at an early period, and died without an opportunity of doing service in the field. His resolute will, moral courage, self-sacrificing spirit, and many social virtues, render his untimely death a source of deep regret to many who had anticipated for him a useful and honorable career as a patriot soldier.

MEMORANDA.

Many and various were the scenes through which this regiment passed from the time, when, a handful of raw recruits among the mountains of South-Eastern Kentucky, they baked their daily ration of corn meal into cakes on boards before the fire, and broiled their beef, not always of the best quality, on the coals, to the day when the little remnant of this war-worn band was mustered out of service. Col. Joseph A. Cooper commenced the organization of this regiment on or about the 6th of March, 1862, at Barbourville, Ky., under an authority from Maj. D. C. Buell, commanding the Department of the Ohio, which was confirmed by an appointment from the Secretary of War, bearing date February 27, 1862—mustered into service on the 22d of March. Col. Cooper immediately appointed the Regimental Quartermaster. Recruiting went on actively, the recruits being men, many of them, forced from East Tennessee by the rigor of the rebel rule, and on the 23d of April four companies being completed, a Lieut. Colonel was appointed. By May 1st, three other companies were organized, and the full quota of Field and Staff Officers was at once appointed. After a march from the northern outlet of Big Creek Gap to Barbourville and back about the 10th of June, the regiment took part in the opening movements of the 7th Division of the Army of the Ohio, Gen. G. W. Morgan, which finally resulted in the capture of Cumberland Gap, on the 17th of June, 1862, crossing with the 1st Brigade, to which it was attached, at Big Creek Gap, and moving up Powell's Valley, south of the mountains to the rear of the rebel stronghold. While stationed at the Gap, the regiment, with all the 1st Brigade, marched to Wallace's Cross Roads, 18 miles north of Knoxville, and destroyed a cavalry camp of the enemy, killing and wounding about sixty men and capturing some prisoners, and returned without loss. About the 1st of September, 100 men of the Sixth formed part of an expedition, under Col. Cooper, to Big Creek Gap, that killed and captured all but two of a rebel cavalry company, numbering one hundred and twelve men, passing safely through the lines of the enemy then environing the Gap. On the 17th of September, the regiment took up the line of march in Morgan's famous retreat to the Ohio River, which was reached on the 3d of October. After being entirely refitted at Portland, Ohio, the regiment was ordered to Gallipolis, Ohio, where it lay until the 11th of November. While here, the regiment was for the first time, paid off. The Brigade to which the Sixth was attached was now ordered to report for duty to Maj. Gen. Rosecranz, commanding the Department of the Cumberland, at Nashville, which it did, being transported by river and rail; and November 20th found the Sixth Tennessee Infantry encamped on the Franklin Pike, two miles from Nashville. It remained at Nashville until the last of December, 1862, when the regiment was detailed as one of an escort for an ammunition train for Rosecranz's army, then engaged in the hotly contested battle of Stones' River.

Near the Lunatic Asylum, eight miles from Nashville, the train was attacked by the rebel cavalry under Wheeler, who was immediately repulsed with considerable loss by the Sixth Tennessee Infantry, slightly assisted by 250 recruits for the Second Tennessee Cavalry, a regiment then at the front. At Murfreesboro', the Sixth remained until April 2, 1863, attached to the 1st Brigade, 2d Division, 14th Army Corps. On the evening of that day, that Brigade was detached and started to Carthage, Tenn., by the way of Liberty. After a very hard march, the Brigade reached Carthage on the 4th, taking part in a skirmish near Liberty on the 3d. The regiment was stationed at Carthage, drilling and scouting the surrounding counties until about the 15th of August, when the Sixth, with the Third Tennessee, were moved to Alexandria, Tenn. There they lay two weeks and then relieved the garrison at McMinnville. At this point they were rejoined by the Fifth Tennessee, and about the 10th of September, crossed the Cumberland Mountains at Beersheba Springs to Jasper, Marion County. From this point the Brigade moved to the Tennessee River at the mouth of Battle Creek. Crossing the river here, it moved to Chattanooga and there took part in the finale of the battle of Chickamauga as a part of Granger's Reserve Corps. After this battle, the Brigade was sent to Sale Creek Academy, 28 miles above Chattanooga, north of the Tennessee, and the Sixth was stationed at Blythe's Ferry to guard the crossing above and below. They were quartered here, skirmishing with the enemy on the other bank of the river almost daily, until they joined the forces that moved to relieve Burnside and raised the siege of Knoxville, early in December. The regiment took part in the sea-saw movements of the winter of 1863-4, known to the outside world as the campaign of East Tennessee, and to those engaged, as a game of prisoner's base with Longstreet. Having been transferred to the Department of the Ohio and assigned to the Second Division, Twenty-third Army Corps, the regiment in the latter part of April, 1864, moved with that Corps to join Sherman in his great campaign for Atlanta. In this the regiment took an active part, losing heavily in the fight around Resacca and engaging in every action from that time until the occupation of Atlanta. In the severe engagement of the 6th of August, Capt. Wm. L. Lea, of Co. C, was killed, the only officer of the Sixth Tennessee ever killed in action, than whom a braver man or better officer never commanded a company. After the far-famed announcement, "Atlanta is ours and fairly won," the 23d Corps was stationed at Decatur until orders to join in the pursuit of Hood, who was on his way north destroying Sherman's lines of communication. The pursuit was pressed as far as Gaylesville, Ala., where it was discontinued and preparations were commenced for the world's wonder, the "march to the sea." As one of them, the 23d Corps was ordered to report to Maj. Gen. Thomas at Nashville. This done, the 1st Brigade, 2d Division was sent to Johnsonville, and lay there until the latter part of November, when it was ordered to Duck River, to guard its crossings. The stay on Duck River was cut short by the movement of Hood toward Nashville, and the battle of Franklin. Hearing of these, the Brigade moved toward Nashville and finding themselves cut off, marched to Clarksville, by way of Charlotte, marching to reach Charlotte, 60 miles, in 33 hours. From Clarksville they joined their Corps at Nashville and took part in the battles around the city, on the 15th and 16th of December, and the pursuit that followed. From Eastport, Miss., the regiment with the rest of the Corps was moved by water to Cincinnati, Ohio, and to Washington, D. C., by rail in January, 1865. In February they embarked at Alexandria, Va., and sailed to Fort Anderson, in N. C., and marched thence to Wilmington. On the 6th of March, the 2d and 3d Divisions, 23d Corps, took up the line of march to Kingston, and from there marched with Schofield and joined Sherman at Goldsboro'. The regiment was stationed at Moseby Hall, 14 miles from Goldsboro', until the 31st of March, when they were ordered to Morehead City, and there embarked and came by way of Fort Monroe to New York. From there the regiment came immediately to Nashville, and on the 27th of April, 1865, all but a detachment of recruits was mustered out of service, having served a few days over three years and moved on foot and otherwise, near ten thousand miles.

SEVENTH REGIMENT.

MEMORANDA.

By order of the President of the United States, Felix A. Reeve was appointed to the rank of Colonel by the Secretary of War, on the 6th day of September, 1862, and authorized to recruit, raise and command, the 8th Tennessee Infantry Volunteers, from exiles or refugees, who were at that time escaping from their homes in East Tennessee, to find protection at the various Federal posts in Kentucky, especially at Cumberland Gap. Soon after this appointment the retreat from Cumberland Gap intervened to prevent recruitment for the Federal army at that point. Consequently the 8th Tennessee Infantry Volunteers was recruited at other points—Nicholasville, Lexington, Camp Dick Robinson, etc. Col. Reeve superintended the recruitment, arming, and equipment of his regiment, with the energetic assistance of John B. Brownlow, (afterward Lieut. Col. of the 9th Tennessee Cavalry Volunteers) during a few weeks, and H. H. Thomas, Adjutant of the 8th Infantry. During the winter of 1862, and the spring of 1863, several cavalry regiments were proposed, and the idea of "riding" instead of "walking" striking favorably the minds of our tired refugees who had walked foot-sore about two hundred miles across the Cumberland Mountains and upon the Kentucky pikes, made the task of recruiting an infantry regiment far more arduous than was expected. However, several companies were organized and mustered in in the spring of 1863, which beginning of regimental formation was soon followed by the addition of other companies in the summer of that year, making on the first day of August of that year a battalion of about seven hundred men present for duty. From the time Col. R. had formed a nucleus of ragged and hungry refugees, and before they were provided with either clothes or rations, the authorities at Lexington saw fit to impose heavy fatigue duty upon them; and early in the spring they were ordered to proceed bare-foot through the mud and snow from Nicholasville to Camp Boone, afterwards unnecessarily changed to Camp Nelson, to fortify for the reception of Gen. John Morgan and his tatterdemalions. But after cutting much timber, and digging and building several rifle-pits in the rocks and out of rocks, the judicious John crossed the river somewhere else. After that the 8th Tennessee Volunteer Infantry was stationed at divers points until the 12th day of August, 1863, (ever memorable day!) when they took up the line of march for East Tennessee. At that period the regiment was organized in the 2d Brigade, 2d Division and 23d Army Corps, Department of the Ohio. The commanders were respectively Mr. Daniel Cameron, Brig. Gen. Heiskell, Maj. Gen. Hartsuff, and Maj. Gen. A. E. Burnside. After a long, weary, and anxious march, of which the details could not be easily given, the regiment reached the East Tennessee and Georgia Railroad on the 4th of the following month. On the 22d of September, about one hundred of the regiment were engaged in a brisk skirmish fight with the enemy at Johnson's Depot, two of whom were wounded. On the 16th of November, the regiment was ordered to Knoxville, where it arrived the same day on the railroad from Bull's Gap. On the 17th Longstreet invested the town, and besieged it until about the 5th of December, during which time the 8th Tennessee took an active part in the defense of the town. On the 17th of January, 1864, participated in the engagement at Dandridge. On the 26th of April left Bull's Gap en route for Georgia. On the 9th of May engaged with the enemy at Buzzard's Roost. On the 14th of May engaged at Resacca, the 23d Corps in front and on the extreme left, brought on the engagement. The 8th Tennessee Infantry on the extreme left without any support; the 16th Kentucky on the right of the 8th Tennessee. Moved through a large open field, across a deep ditch, making it difficult to keep up an alignment, and exposed to the shot and shell of the enemy; moved on through the timber till the line gained the protection of a hill, but exposed to sharpshooters in front and on the left flank. Relieved after four hours, by Howard's Corps. On the next day moved to the left one and a half miles as a reserve to Hooker's Corps, which engaged the enemy vigorously, taking four guns and many prisoners. On the 16th, 17th, 18th, etc., marching and skirmishing with the retreating enemy. On the 22d, burnt some mills on the Hightower river, in the Allatoona mountains; all day skirmishing. May 27th in front as usual. The 8th Tennessee engaged fighting and skirmishing at Burnt Hickory. June 2. The 8th Tennessee charged and drove them from their position on a hill; eight men wounded. Don't know name of this affair. June 14. The whole regiment on the skirmish line and engaged. The line advanced and occupied the rebels' first line of works. June 17. The regiment engaged at the battle of Lost Mountain; the Adjutant, Lieut. Jesse S. Reeve, fell mortally wounded. June 22. Drove the enemy and took position near the Allatoona road, and fortified. June 26. The 8th Tennessee ordered out beyond the first line of battle to develop a piece of woods. Took possession of the rebel works without much fighting. On the 6th of August the Brigade to which the regiment was attached charged a strong work of the rebels at Utowah Creek, near Atlanta, the 8th in advance. The fire was so severe that about one hundred men of the regiment were killed and wounded in less than fifteen minutes. The color-bearer was shot so near the fort that the rebels seized the colors and hauled him, still grasping one end of the staff, within their works. The General commanding the Corps ordered a new set of colors furnished the regiment, praising their gallantry in the action and the valor of the brave standard-bearer who refused to yield up his trust but with his life. It might be added that the Georgia campaign was one continuous engagement. The 8th Tennessee bore an honorable part in the heavy engagements of Jonesborough, Ga., and Columbia, Franklin and Nashville, Tennessee. With the rest of the Army of the Ohio they went to North Carolina in January, 1865, and displayed their wonted prowess in the actions of Fort Anderson, Town Creek and Wilmington, in the latter State. The 8th Tennessee, men and officers, fought bravely and were frequently complimented by personal addresses of their Brigade and Division commanders, and in general orders. Especially were they praised by Gens. Reilley and Cox the latter of whom, the commander of the 22d Corps, was one of the noblest officers in the army.

The regiment was mustered out at Nashville, Tenn., on the — day of — 1865.

NINTH REGIMENT.

[This regiment was never mustered into the service—it being transferred and merged into other regiments before it was completely organized, or rolls made for it.]

MEMORANDA.

This Regiment was organized the 24th of October, 1864, in Hamilton county. It was employed for some time by Maj. Gen. Steadman, commanding the District of the Etowah, in scouting the Cumberland Mountains in Tennessee and Northern Georgia, after the numerous guerrilla bands which infested that region. Portions of the regiment were always on scouting expeditions, and had frequent engagements with the bushwhackers. The contest was one of extraordinary severity on both sides. This regiment had repeated engagements with the notorious Gatewood guerrilla band in Northern Georgia, the most remarkable of which was in January, 1865. Leaving Chatanooga in the morning, our troops marched forty-five miles until they came in sight of the guerrilla camp about midnight. The guerrillas, eighty in number, were all asleep and their camp fires were burning brightly. Captain McWilliams' company was dismounted and posted in rear of the camp, and Lieut. Adam Kelly, with fifty men, made a charge upon the guerillas in front. Fourteen of the rebels were killed on the spot, and a number wounded. The rest made their escape, with the loss of most of their horses and arms. Not one of our men was killed or badly wounded. In March, 1865, the regiment was turned over to the Commander of the Department, and shortly afterward it was ordered to report to General Steadman. It was then placed under General Judah, commanding at Decatur Ga., the last of March, 1865, and remained there scouting until the surrender of the rebel army, when it was ordered to Resaca, Ga., where its men were employed as couriers along the railroad to Atlanta. On the 18th of June, 1865, the regiment was ordered to Nashville and mustered out of service on the 30th of that month.

MEMORANDA.

The Seventh Tennessee Mounted Infantry was recruited in Anderson, Knox, Campbell, McMinn, Meigs and Monroe Counties; was organized at Athens, Tenn. and stationed at that point the greater portion of its term of service. It was actively employed in hunting guerrillas, with whom it had frequent engagements.

* Said James L Bray was mustered in the 4th Tennessee Infantry on the 15th of March, 1862, by Col. Robert Johnson, and was appointed by him 2d Lieut. in Co. B, on the 15th of April 1862. He served as 2d Lieut until Aug. 1, 1862, when he sent up his resignation, but never heard from it since: he was present with his Regiment when it was mustered out, but through mistake he was not put on the muster-in roll. He has done duty all the time since.

† Said Eli Montgomery was driving a wagon from Cumberland Gap, to the Crab Orchard, Ky., when his command was camped at that place; while on the road the wagon train was captured by Bragg's army; said soldier being cut off from his command, went to the 14th Ky. Cavalry, where he reported for duty and drew twelve months' pay in said Regiment, and when it was mustered out of service he went to the 4th Ky. Mounted Infantry, where he received $38. He came to his Regiment Aug 13 64, where he has done duty ever since.

MEMORANDA.

The organization of the First Tennessee Cavalry took place at Camp Dennison, Ohio, November 1, 62. Thence it was moved to Louisville by order of Major Gen. Wright, and thence to Nashville. Afterwards to Triune by order of Brig. General R. B. Mitchell. In the organization of the Cavalry Department of the Cumberland it was united with the First Brigade, First Division. From the time it arrived at the front, March, 1863, until the organization of the Cavalry, it was busily engaged scouting the country around Triune in pursuit of the numerous guerrilla bands which were perpetually depredating along the line of railroad. The rebels were bold and confident at that time, and numerous conflicts took place with their predatory bands. The ensuing summer, the regiment, under Major General Rosecranz, entered on the campaign which resulted in the occupation of Tullahoma and Chattanooga. It had engagements with rebel troops at Rover, Middleton, Guyer's Gap, Shelbyville and Cowan's station. Its next movement was to Huntsville

Alabama, thence to Lafayette, Tenn., thence to Stephenson, Ala.; afterward crossing Tennessee River, Sand Mountain and Will's Valley. Thence it crossed the Cumberland Mountains to Alpine, Ga. Here the Regiment was detached from its brigade and was moved by Lieut. Colonel James P. Brownlow in the direction of Rome, Ga. About ten miles from Rome, he divided the Regiment and sent Major Dyer with four companies on toward Rome. He went with the rest of the Regiment toward Dirt Town, captured a number of scouts, drove in the pickets at that place, and being rejoined by Major Dyer, returned to Chatooga River. Two days after he attacked the rebels at Lafayette, defeated them and returned to Alpine. The Regiment then marched up Cumberland Mountain through McLemore's Cove to Chickamauga, and shared in the three days' battle of September 18, 19 and 20, 1863. Crossing Tennessee River at Chattanooga it marched to Stephenson, Ala. At that place it was ordered in pursuit of the Rebel Cavalry under General Wheeler, then crossing Cumberland Mountain, going by McMinnville, Murfreesboro, Rover and Shelbyville. A detachment of the Regiment was sent to Sparta, Tenn., where it had several engagements with the guerrillas then infesting the mountains of that region. Thence it marched with the command to Kingston, Tenn., Knoxville, Strawberry Plains, New Market and Dandridge. At this last place, an engagement took place with a largely superior force of Rebel Cavalry, and the Regiment was completely surrounded. A charge was made which broke the lines of the enemy, and our force escaped with little loss. The Regiment then marched to Mossy Creek, where it had skirmishes daily until Dec 29 when a general engagement took place. Lieut. Colonel Brownlow, in violation of orders from his superior, led a charge upon the enemy, in which he completely broke their lines, recaptured two pieces of the 18th Indiana Battery, and saved the entire command from disaster. It marched then to Dandridge, where, by order of Gen. Elliott, it reported to Colonel Palmer of the 15th Pennsylvania Volunteers, remaining under his orders and scouting through Sevier and Cocke counties until January 25, 1864. At Fair Gardens, on the 28th of June, an engagement took place with the enemy. The latter were driven back to their main body and returned with their whole force. A desperate charge was made by our troops, and the fight continued with great fury until the Regiment was in the very heart of the rebel forces and completely surrounded by a largely superior force. A second determined charge was made in which the Regiment cut its way out with the sword. Lieut. Colonel Brownlow and a number of his men were captured, but escaped during the march on the ensuing night, and returned safely to camp the next morning. On the 20th of April ensuing Colonel Campbell, commanding brigade, was relieved by Col. J. B. Dorr, 8th Iowa Cavalry, and the Regiment was marched to Resaca, Cassville, Dallas, and Pine Mountain, Ga., and thence to a raid on the Macon Railroad, where it had a fight with the enemy. At Newnan it met with a heavy rebel force. General McCook's command was surrounded. Lieut. Colonel Brownlow determined not to surrender and made his way through the enemy's lines, reaching Chattahoochee river on the 1st of August. Here, while the Regiment was crossing the stream, a heavy charge was made by the enemy, and our men were scattered and a number captured. Many more were taken prisoners in the woods, while making their way to the Federal lines. Lieut. Colonel Brownlow reached Marietta on the 3rd of August with a few men, where the more fortunate fugitives continued to come in for several days; and these returned to Nashville to be remounted. There they remained until General Wheeler's raid through Middle Tennessee. The Regiment was in the engagement with him at Lavergne, September 1st. On the following day fought with him at Franklin, and some days afterward at Campbellsville. General Wheeler retreated and our forces followed him to Florence, where he crossed the river, and our troops returned to Pulaski. Here we had a skirmish with the Rebel General Forrest. The Regiment continued to scout along Tennessee River between Lamb's Ferry and Florence until November, when Gen. Hood crossed Tennessee River at Florence and began his advance upon Nashville. After his defeat on the 15th and 16th of December, the Cavalry followed him up until he escaped or went into winter quarters. On the 27th of January the First Cavalry Brigade was sent to make a reconnaissance as far as Corinth. At that place the Regiment engaged the enemy, routed them, and returned with the Brigade to Waterloo. On the 10th of February it returned to Nashville, where it remained on duty until its muster out June 14, 1865.

MEMORANDA.

The organization of the Third Regiment of Tennessee Volunteer Cavalry was commenced at Cumberland Gap, Ky. Major William C. Pickens, of Sevier county, East Tennessee, was vested with authority from Governor Johnson to raise a regiment, and received the first recruits August 10, 1862. Gen. George W. Morgan's lines being hemmed in, his communications and supplies being cut off by the invasion of Kentucky under E. Kirby Smith, he evacuated that place on the 17th day of September, 1862. Company A of this Regiment was with General Morgan, and shared the sufferings and privations of that eventful retreat and arduous march to Sciotoville, Ohio, a distance of two hundred and fifty miles; thence to Portland, Gillipps, Covington, Ky., and at Louisville, at which place the recruits of Companies B, C, D and E, reported for duty, and were ordered to Nashville, Tenn., as guards for Government stores, arriving December 24, 1862. The Regiment was temporarily attached to Brigadier General James G. Spears' Brigade of Tennessee Infantry, by order of Governor Johnson, January 1, 1862; here the Regiment was ordered to the front and participated in the battle of Stone River, and was the second regiment that entered Murfreesboro. On January 8th, 1863, the Regiment was attached to the 3d Brigade, Cavalry Division, commanded by General Stanley. Prior to this date the Companies were but partially filled. On January 27th, 1863, the Companies were consolidated into five, A, B, C, D and E, and mustered into the service at Murfreesboro, Tenn., by Capt. John H. Young, U. S. Mustering Officer. On January 31st the Regiment, with the 2d Tennessee Cavalry, made a dash into Middleton, Tenn., capturing the rebel Colonel Douglas, with forty-two of his men, and destroying his encampment, Colonel Pickens leading the charge, which was gallantly made by the officers and men; Major Callett distinguishing himself by capturing eight rebels alone by his daring impetuosity. During the winter campaign this Regiment was stationed in the extreme front of General Rosecrans' army, picketing, scouting and skirmishing with the enemy. On the 21st day of March, 1863, the Regiment being encamped three miles from Murfreesboro, on the Salem Pike, was attacked by a superior force, and after an engagement of half an hours duration, repulsed them, killing four rebels and saving their camp. April 20th, 1863, all the cavalry being ordered on an expedition into the enemies' lines, this Regiment under the command of the Lieutenant Colonel, Duff G. Thornburgh, accompanied the expedition, participated in the rout of John H. Morgan and his force, and the capture of McMinnville. On the reorganization of the Cavalry, May 1st, 1863, this Regiment was assigned to the 2d Brigade, 1st Division, commanded by Brigadier General R. B. Mitchell. May 6th, 1863, ordered to Nashville and placed in command of Brigadier General R. S. Granger, in the reserve corps, where the Regiment was stationed until December 27, 1863, during which time Companies F, G, H and I were recruited and mustered into service. It scouted almost continually, and cleared the country in the vicinity of Nashville of guerrillas. About the 25th of December, the Regiment was attached to a Brigade of Cavalry commanded by Col. D. M. Ray, of the 2d Tennessee Cavalry. The Brigade left Nashville December 27th, 1863, and marched via Hillsboro to Duck River—under command of Lieut. Col. Duff G. Thornburgh. The Brigade stayed near Columbia, Tenn., until January 2d, 1864, when, accompanied by Brigadier General W. S. Smith, it moved forward crossing the Tennessee River at Savannah, Tenn. From Savannah it moved to Corinth, Miss., thence to Colliersville, Tenn., where the Brigade was organized. The 30th Illinois, 2d, 3d and 4th Tennessee, and the 5th Kentucky Cavalry regiments, and the 72d Indiana Mounted Infantry, composed the Brigade, which was commanded by Col. Lafayette McCrellis, 3d Illinois Cavalry. During the stay at Colliersville Lieut. Col. D. G. Thornburgh returned to Nashville, leaving Major John B. Minnis in command of the Regiment. It left Colliersville, Tenn. on the 10th of February with the Brigade, which the Regiment accompanied during the entire march, performing its part of picket duty, scouting, etc., until proceeding as far South as West Point, Miss., and returning to within three miles of Okalona, Miss., where the Brigade encamped on the night of the 21st of February. On the morning of the 22d of February the Brigade was attacked by a superior force of the enemy. It had to fall back and the enemy pressed the rear so hard that it created some confusion: but the Regiment most coolly awaited orders; and late in the evening of the same day made a charge on the enemy, which drove them back in confusion. The Regiment lost only five men in this engagement; two wounded and three missing. The Regiments arrived at Germantown, Tenn., on the 26th day of February, and about the 1st of March the Brigade was again reorganized, composing all the original Brigade except the 3d Illinois Cavalry, being commanded by Lieut. Col. J. M. Thornburgh, 4th Tennessee Cavalry. On the 5th of March it left Germantown en route for Nashville, where they arrived March 17th, 1864, and remained there until the 10th of April.

Companies C and F, while on a scout on Yellow Creek, Dixon county, had a severe skirmish with a body of rebel troops and drove them from the field. Companies E and G were ordered on the 10th of September, 1864, to pursue the retreating column of the rebel General Wheeler eleven miles from Florence. On their return they fell into an ambushade of the enemy. By extraordinary exertions they escaped, leaving Captain W. A. Campbell captured, Sergeants Williams and Pickle severely wounded, and two men captured.

The rebel forces under Forrest outflanked Athens September 24, 1864, capturing that portion of the Regiment which remained in camp. The rest of the Regiment after a strong resistance to an overpowering force, was captured at Sulphur Trestle, Sept. 25, 1864, only fifteen officers and some two hundred men making their escape. The captured officers were exchanged December 15. On the 27th of April following the steamer Sultana, having the Regiment with a large number of other troops on board, blew up near Memphis, killing instantly one hundred and seventy-four members of the Regiment. A number subsequently died of the injuries received at that terrible disaster. The total number of miles marched by this Regiment was 5,557.

DECEASED OFFICERS.—Major A. C. Catlett died at Nashville March 24 1864, of small pox; Captain G. B. Griffith died at Nashville, 1863, of fever; First Lieutenant Wogenor and First Lieutenant G. E. Curter were killed in action at Sulphur Brook Trestle, Sept. 25, 1864; Second Lieutenant R. Hunter died in 1865 at Nashville.

On tendering his resignation as commander of the 1st Brigade of Tennessee Cavalry, Lieut. Col. D. G. Thornburgh received the following complimentary order and letters from his superiors:

HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF NORTHERN ALABAMA,
Decatur, July 9th, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS }
No. 11 } Extract.

I. * * Lieut. Col D. G. THORNBURGH, commanding 1st Brigade of Tennessee Cavalry, having resigned his position, the General Commanding cannot allow him to leave this command without tendering him his thanks for the prompt and energetic manner in which he has performed his duties. He regrets exceedingly the necessity that has induced him to leave the service.

By order of Brigadier General R. S. Granger, Commanding District.
(Signed) CHAS. T. GARDNER, Capt. and A. A. G.
Lt. Col. D. G. THORNBURGH.

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, STATE OF TENNESSEE,
Nashville, July 15th, 1864.

Lieut. Col. D. G. THORNBURGH:

Dear Colonel:—I cannot allow you to leave my command without tendering you my personal thanks for your cheerful, energetic and efficient aid in organizing and commanding the 1st Brigade of my Division, (4th Cavalry Division.) To you am I indebted for the high discipline and efficiency of that Brigade. In your retirement that all the success and prosperity due a devoted patriot and true soldier may attend you, will be the earnest prayer of your friend.

(Signed) ALVAN C. GILLEM,
Brig. Gen. U. S. V Comd'g 4th Cavalry Division.

STATE OF TENNESSEE, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
Nashville, Tenn., July 15th, 1864.

Colonel:—I have learned with regret that the tender of your resignation has been accepted. Among the first to enter the service, you have performed your duty well in all positions you have been called upon to fill, whether as Regimental or Brigade Commander; and I regret that circumstances over which you have no control has deprived the service your valuable assistance.

I am, as ever, very truly, your obedient servant,
(Signed) ANDREW JOHNSON,
Brig. Gen. and Military Governor Tennessee.

HEADQUARTERS CAVALRY FORCES,
Decatur, July 10th, 1864.

Lieut. Col. D. G. THORNBURGH,

Third Tennessee Cavalry, Comd'g 1st Brigade, 4th Division Cavalry:

Colonel:—I cannot permit you to leave the service without rendering you my thanks for the promptitude and energy you have always displayed while serving under my command. It affords me pleasure to bear testimony to your character as an efficient and gallant soldier and courteous gentleman.

I am Colonel, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
(Signed) LOVELL H. ROUSSEAU, Major General.

HEADQUARTERS CHIEF OF CAVALRY,
Military Division of the Mississippi,
Nashville, Tenn., July 15, 1864.

Lieut. Col. D. G. THORNBURGH,

Comd'g 1st Brigade Tennessee Cavalry:

SIR:—General Smith directs me to state that having been informed that your resignation as Lieut. Col. of the 3d Tenn. Cavalry has been accepted by the Major General Commanding the Department of the Cumberland, he is desirous of manifesting to you upon your retiring from the military service, his high sense of your capacity and bravery as a Regimental and Brigade Commander, and requests you to accept of his thanks for the assiduity with which you have performed all the duties required of you while under command, or acting under his observations.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
(Signed) J. E. RAY, Capt. and A. D. C.

MEMORANDA.

This Regiment was organized at Cumberland Gap, in July, 1862, from refugees who escaped to that notable rendezvous, from the bloody conscription of the Rebellion, which was rife throughout almost the entire State. On the 17th of the ensuing September it left that place under Gen. G. W. Morgan, arriving at Gallipolis, Ohio Nov. 12, 1862. Thence it moved to Louisville, arriving there in December, and performed scouting service throughout that month, until it was marched to Nashville Jan 26, 1863. There it did post and scout service until the 5th of September, when it was moved to Murfreesboro', doing like duty there up to December 23, 1863. It went with Gen. Wm. Sooy Smith on his expedition to West Point, Miss., and returned to Nashville, March 18, 1864. On the 19th of June it went to Decatur, Ala., and in July marched with Gen. Rousseau on his raid through Alabama, arriving at Marietta, Ga., July 23, 1864. It accompanied Major-Gen. McCook on a raid south and west of Atlanta, in which it lost nearly all its horses and arms, in crossing the Chattahoochie River. It arrived at Marietta, August 2, 1864. By order of Maj-Gen. Thomas it returned to Decatur, Ala., on the 10th of August, and was assigned to post and scout duty under Gen. R. S. Granger, until August 19, when it was ordered to Nashville. About the 23d of August it was ordered to Pulaski, to meet the rebel General Forest, who was advancing on the Southern Central Railroad, followed by the rebel forces to the Tennessee River; shortly afterwards it returned to Nashville. On the 27th of November it marched to meet the rebel General, Hood, who was advancing on his ill-fated expedition against Nashville, and participated in nearly all the battles of that memorable and glorious campaign; following the retreating enemy to Eastport, Miss. From Eastport it was ordered to the Gulf Department, and accompanied Gen. Canby through the Mobile campaign, after which it went to Baton Rouge. It arrived at Nashville, June 12, 1865. Company C was detached, from December, 1863, to April, 1864, for duty at the Headquarters of the Twelfth Army Corps, at Tullahoma, Tenn. The other Companies served without intermission with the Regiment.

MEMORANDA.

This Regiment was recruited and organized by Col. Wm. B. Stokes, in Middle Tennessee, who was commissioned by Andrew Johnson, Military Governor, to raise a battalion of cavalry in June 1862. In July following, he raised a regiment consisting of twelve companies. It was filled up at Nashville principally, the recruits coming in from various counties in squads, making their way generally by night through a country infested by guerrillas and rebels of the most desperate and brutal character. It was first known as the First Middle Tennessee Cavalry, and was afterward numbered as the Fifth. The following are some of the engagements which it fought, or in which it participated.

The routing and completely demolishing Cols. Bennett and Ward on Dickinson Pike, September, 1862. The defeat of Col. Dibrell, driving him out of Nealy's Bend, utterly demolishing him, in Oct. 1862. It was in the battle on Franklin pike with Gen. Forrest. In the battle of Laverne, and succeeded in driving Forest and Anderson from the field, capturing a number of prisoners, a large quantity of supplies, tents, locomotives, cars, etc. Was in numerous skirmishes around Nashville, on Big Harpeth, in the same year. Was in the battle of Triune, the 27th of Dec. 1862. Engaged the rebel force under Wheeler, and drove him some distance until night. Was in the battle of Stone River, from first to last—opening the battle on Tuesday morning, Dec. 30, 1862, (having driven Wheeler, the evening before, inside of his works,) and closed the fight on the Manchester pike, on Monday evening, January 5, 1863. A portion of the regiment was in the engagement at Bradyville, under Major Murphy. Also at Milton, with Morgan, Capt. Jo. Blackburn in command. Also, in numerous engagements at Liberty and Snow Hill, and at Shelbyville, under command of Lieut. Col. Galbraith, where the men distinguished themselves by a desperate charge, driving the enemy through the town most gallantly.

One battalion of the regiment was stationed in Shelbyville for some time, and was in a number of battles and skirmishes, doing good service, and received high compliments from their superior officers. The other portion of the regiment was stationed at Carthage, on the Cumberland River, under command of Col. Stokes, and was in a great many skirmishes. Having to carry the mail from Carthage to Gallatin, a fight was almost of daily occurrence. A number of the couriers and guards were killed and captured during the summer of 1863. A portion of the command was in the battle of Lookout Mountain, under command of Capt. Cain and Lieut. Carter, and were highly commended by Generals Hooker and Howard. A part of the regiment was in the battles of Chickamanga and Chattanooga, under Lieuts. Robinson and Nelson. The regiment was subsequently ordered to Sparta, Tenn., to break up the guerrilla bands that swarmed in that region. The guerrilla chiefs, Hughes, Bledsod, and Champ Ferguson, (who was afterward hung at Nashville, for his numerous horrid crimes,) declared a war of extermination against Col. Stokes' command. A detachment of the regiment was attacked on Calfkiller Creek on the 22nd of February, 1864, by a large force of guerrillas, and a severe engagement followed. Three or four soldiers were killed in action, and nineteen others were taken prisoners, and deliberately murdered after they had surrendered and given up their arms. The heads of some of the unfortunate prisoners were riddled with balls, one man receiving seven bullets. On the following morning our pickets were attacked, and Wilcher, a vidette, a noble young soldier, captured, carried a short distance and cruelly murdered. Col. Stokes, on hearing of the savage mode of warfare practiced by Champ Ferguson and other guerrilla chiefs, issued orders to take no prisoners. A desperate contest commenced, in which our loss was seven or eight killed and a few wounded, and that of the guerrillas not less than a hundred killed and a large number wounded. Captains Blackburn and Waters, in command of a detachment of the regiment, attacked Hughes and Ferguson on Calfkiller Creek, and one of the severest battles ensued, in which several were killed on both sides, Ferguson badly wounded and the guerrillas put to flight. Again, Hughes and his command were attacked at the foot of Cumberland Mountain, near Beersheba Springs, and scattered in every direction, their loss being heavy, while our loss was small. This victory was won by Capt. Blackburn and his men. This closed the bloody war for a time, and many of the enemy then came in, surrendered with horses, equipments and arms.

Forage becoming scarce, the regiment was moved to Granville, on the Cumberland River, where it was plenty. Soon afterward it was ordered to Nashville.

Col. Stokes was then ordered to return to the mountain regions and assume command of the forces at Carthage, and remained there until honorably discharged in April, 1865. During this time the regiment was under the command of Lieut. Col. Clift, and was engaged in the battle in front of Nashville. During this period the regiment was in a great many skirmishes. The regiment received high compliments from Generals Rosecrans, Negley, Miller, Stanly, Smith, Thomas, Milroy and others, and both officers and men have again and again received the highest praise for their courage and gallantry.

MEMORANDA.

This Regiment was begun at Bethel, West Virginia, and mustered into service November 13, 62. It entered upon arduous scouting duty in that region, and did signal and valuable service in destroying guerrilla bands. When Gen. Sterling Price retreated from Corinth it went in pursuit and captured two hundred and fifty prisoners without the loss of a man. At Salem, Miss., it had an engagement with the rebels under Col. McGill. Col. Hurst, and Maj. W. J. Smith—afterwards Gen. Smith—had their horses killed under them while leading a charge. Major Baswell was wounded. During its service the Regiment took 1900 prisoners in various actions. At Wyott, Miss., it fought the rebels, and defeated them, capturing one hundred prisoners and several guns after hard fighting. On its return it captured 500 head of cattle. On the 18th of June following it marched to Purdy, Tenn., scouted the country and took a large number of prisoners, and on the 5th of Feb., 1864, went to Memphis. March 19 it went to Bolivar and defeated a force of rebels. On the 29th of the same month, it had a severe fight with a largely superior force of the enemy, in which it was forced to retire with the loss of its train, two commissioned officers killed, and thirty men missing. The rebels were nearly ten to one against our force. November 26th it went to Nashville to participate in the memorable battle in front of that place, where it acquitted itself with credit. Subsequent to that time it was employed on guard and picket duty. The Regiment did active service in North Mississippi and Arkansas in the spring of 1864. It had engagements with the rebels at Jackson and Clifton, Tenn., Coldwater, Miss., Ripley, Miss., Humboldt, Tenn., Forked Deer, at Cows Pond with Forrest, at Salem Miss., with Forrest, Chalmers and Lee, in addition to the places mentioned in the first part of this Memorandum.

Company A had since organization 146 men, including officers. Company B 130 men. Company C 146 men. Company I 114 men.

MEMORANDA.

The records and rolls of the Seventh Tennessee Cavalry, like those of several other regiments, are very defective, and notwithstanding all the efforts of the Adjutant General's office to obtain them in perfect form, are yet incomplete. The Seventh Cavalry was originally organized with nine companies. The regiment was captured by the enemy, and the rolls of the companies were never recovered. This took place in March, 1864. Afterwards the companies were consolidated by transfer in accordance with Special Order No. 104, dated at Headquarters, District of Western Kentucky, June 18, 1864. There were never any regular transfer rolls of companies made out.

The following muster out roll accounts for the officers and privates only who were not captured, and those who rejoined the regiment since the reorganization and capture, and who have since been placed on the different payrolls thereafter made out.

MEMORANDA.

The Eighth Regiment Tennessee Cavalry was raised and commanded by Colonel S. K. N. Patton of Washington county East Tennessee. It was composed of two fractions of Regiments known as the Eighth and Tenth East Tennessee Cavalry. The Eighth Regiment was begun in Kentucky in June, 1863, under Lieut. Col. Thomas J. Capps, and was first known as the Fifth Regiment East Tennessee Cav. It saw some active service in the field both in Kentucky and in Tennessee, under Major General A. E. Burnside; was at the surrender of Cumberland Gap; took an active part in the fights at Blountsville and Rheatown, and in some skirmishes at Kingsport and Dovault's Ford, etc., in October, 1863, under the command of Major J. M. Sawyers; was besieged in Knoxville by Longstreet's command, and rendered material aid in defending that post.

The Tenth Regiment had its origin in East Tennessee in September, 1863, by authority granted to Colonel S. K. N. Patton by General Burnside. It saw some active service in East Tennessee under Generals Shackleford and Wilcox, Colonels Casement and Harney, in September, October and November, 1863; was stationed for a short time at Mossy Creek, Morristown, Whiteburgh, Rodgersville Junction, Kyker's Mills, Klipper's or Limestone Depot. Was sent to Camp Nelson, Ky., in charge of prisoners in December, 1863.

These two fractions of Regiments were consolidated by order of Brigadier General Andrew Johnson, and Military Governor of Tennessee, February 6, 1864. Colonel Patton completed the Regiment and assumed command of it at Columbia, Tenn., April 7, 1864. The command was employed in guarding the posts of Columbia and Franklin, and the railroad bridges between those points.

April 18.—Being relieved at Columbia, Colonel Patton moved his headquarters to Franklin; command still employed in guarding railroad bridges and completing block houses necessary for the defense of the various bridges from Duck River to Brentwood.

June 17, 1864.—Was relieved at Franklin, Tenn., and ordered to join the Third Brigade, near Gallatin, Tennessee.

June 19, 1864.—Arrived at Gallatin and went into camp; remained at Gallatin and in command of Post (after the Ninth and Thirteenth Regiments left for East Tennessee) and in guarding the railroad from Burk Lodge to Edgefield Junction, until September 24, 1864.

September 24.—Left Gallatin under orders to report to General A. C. Gillem in East Tennessee; moved via Lebanon, Trousdale Ferry, Sparta, Kingston, Knoxville and Morristown; joined command with Ninth and Thirteenth Regiments at McFarlan \times Roads, Jefferson county, October 9, 1864. Private Lane of Company I was drowned on the morning of the 24th in crossing the Cumberland River.

October 13.—Third Battalion of the Regiment being on a scout, met the enemy at Greeneville, Tenn.; where, after some gallant charging by Captains Rush and Denton, with Companies C and H of Major Deaken's Battalion, the command was driven back to Bull's Gap, leaving several prisoners in the hands of the enemy. Seth Rollins, private of Company K was killed and left upon the field.

October 27.—The Brigade left New Market at or near Panther Springs; met and repulsed the enemy.

October 28.—Moved forward driving the enemy until within one mile of Morristown, where we halted temporarily, finding the enemy in line and ready to receive us; Ninth and Thirteenth Regiments in front, the Eighth Regiment in reserve to support the artillery. A charge was made in front, but failed to break the enemies' line. A charge was made with sabres—the enemies' line was broken and McClung's Battery captured. Some three hundred of the enemy were killed and captured. In this charge the Eighth lost Wm. H. Booth of Co. M, B. McDaniel of Co. F, James Lanier and R. B. Cunningham of Co. G, killed, and several wounded. After penetrating upper East Tennessee with the Brigade to Henderson, Colonel Patton, with one Battalion, of his Regiment, was sent in the direction of Bristol. He scouted Sullivan county south of Holston River.

November 9.—The Brigade fell back during the night to Bull's Gap. On the 11th the enemy appeared in front of the Gap. Major Sawyers (First Battalion) was sent out and skirmished with the enemy, but was compelled to fall back to the Gap, losing one man, private Gregory Martin of Co I, who was mortally wounded and died next morning.

November 12.—The rebel Colonel Basil Duke's command, under General Breckenridge, assaulted our position on the left, held by Major James Deakins' Third Battalion. The assailants were repulsed, leaving some twenty-five of their dead and wounded on the field. The gallant manner in which this assault was received by Companies C, E, H and K, under Captains Rush, Denton and Hendrickson, and Lieutenant Testerman, who was kept in command of E, deserves high praise. Major Deakins received several balls through his clothes. While this assault was being made in front the rebels under Major Day, charged Companies B and L in the rear of the Gap, under Captain Sharp and Lieutenant McCoy, and were gallantly repulsed and pursued.

This Third Battalion lost in killed: Eli R. Ensor, of Co. H; Robert Turner, of Co. E; Andrew McLoud, of Co. E; Pleasant Lane, of Co. C, and several wounded.

November 13, at night fall, the Brigade was ordered to leave the Gap—the Eighth and Ninth Regiments being in charge of the artillery and train. After the advance had proceeded some ten miles another charge was made, when the cattle guard in the rear was fired into, which produced a stampede among the pack mules and wagon trains, and produced confusion and disorder. The command fell back in disorder, after forming several times and making an attempt to stop the advance of the enemy. Soon after sun-rise the advance reached Strawberry Plains, having lost both artillery and wagon train, and quite a number of officers and privates missing. The Regiment lost, in killed, Privates Andrew Hurst and Samuel Haun, of Co. C, and a number of officers and privates taken prisoners. The whole command, under Col. Patton, on the 14th, left Strawberry Plains for Knoxville; met General Gillem near Knoxville, who put the Brigade in Camp at Loves'.

November 20.—Moved up to and relieved Strawberry Plains, which was threatened with an assault by the enemy. The enemy recrossing the river, the command returned to Knoxville.

December 10, 1864.—Left Knoxville and joined Burbridge at Blaine's \times Roads, and started upon a raid to Wytheville, Va. December 13, 1864.—Reached Rotheswood, Hawkins county—Eighth Regiment in front; found the enemy in front on the opposite side of the North Fork of Holston River, and under cover. Col. Patton was ordered to cross the river, up the stream, and to drive the enemy from under cover, so as to open the ford for the remainder of the command, which orders he obeyed, attacking and routing the enemy, and capturing the rebel Dick Morgan and a portion of his command.

December 16.—Our advance entered Marion, Va., and met the rebels again, the Eighth Cavalry in front, driving the enemy until they arrived at a bridge over the river, some three miles east of the village, when the rebels attempted to stop us. Capt. Rush and Lieut. Mahoney, with Cos. C and D charged the bridge, and drove the rebels from their position and put them to flight. Private Higgins, of Co. D, was killed, and Sergt. Mulker and Private Giroin were wounded. The artillery was captured at Red Creek, two miles west of Wytheville. The last named place was entered in the evening and occupied during the night. A large portion of ordnance and other stores were destroyed.

December 17, 1864.—Returning, met the enemy and drove them before us until we came to the bridge, some three miles from Marion, Va., where the enemy were in position, the Eighth was put in front, on foot, and lay upon their arms in line all night.

December 18, 1864.—General Burbridge engaged the enemy all day without affecting his position materially.

December 19, 1864.—Enemy moved upon Saltville. December 20.—In the evening opened fire upon the forts and invested the place, and was preparing to assault when the enemy, under cover of night, evacuated the place, which was immediately occupied by us.

December 21.—Command employed in demolishing and burning the place.

December 24.—Rear of the command was run into at Moccasin Gap, Va., and some two men killed, viz: James H. Nolen and Elbert Beals. Some of our men were taken prisoners, who were treated most inhumanly. The rebel officers would not permit any one to visit the wounded or bury the dead. They would not permit any one to make even a box to bury the bodies of our dead.

December 29.—Reached Knoxville, after twenty days' raid in the most intensely cold and wet part of the winter, quite a number of the men having been frost-bitten on the trip.

March 21.—Such portion of the command as were mounted, joined Gen. Stoneman on his raid into Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia. At Saulsbury, the enemy was found in position at a bridge over the river. Captain Bible, with his company, were dismounted for the purpose of dislodging the enemy, which he succeeded in doing; thus opening the way for the cavalry to charge, which they did in a most gallant style, capturing a number of prisoners. John Renshaw, of Co. H, was killed here. While on this raid, through those States, a portion of the Regiment were in numerous skirmishes with the enemy. The command finally reunited and went into camp at Lenoir's Station in June, 1865, and was mustered out of service at Knoxville, Tenn., September 11, 1865.

RECORD OF EVENTS.

[The following record of several companies gives interesting and valuable incidents connected with the history of the Eighth Cavalry;]

June 15, 1863.—Company A was organized by Capt. F. M. McFall, at Lexington, Ky. At that time the regiment was known as the Fifth Tennessee Cavalry.

June 30, 1863.—The company was mustered into the service at Camp Nelson, Ky.

July 26, 1863.—The company, together with B and C, under command of Major John M. Sawyers, left Camp Nelson on a forced march to intercept the march of a body of rebel cavalry, under Col. Scott, through the State of Kentucky. After chasing the rebel cavalry, or those who escaped to the Southern border of Kentucky, the command returned to Camp Nelson on the 3d of August. This chase was pursued with so much vigor that the greater part of the rebel force was captured, and the men were kept in the saddle and on the march, day and night, nearly the whole time they were out. Corporal John H. Persinger, of Co. A, was severely wounded by a gun shot in the breast, but recovered. (Several other regiments participated in the expedition.)

August 8, 1863.—Company A, commanded by 2d Lieutenant James T. Johnson, and Companies B and C, marched from Camp Nelson, Ky., for East Tennessee, under command of Major S. M. Sawyers, arrived at Glasgow, Ky., on the 14th; at Salina, Tenn., on the 21st; engaged the enemy in a skirmish near Montgomery, Tenn., on the 30th, being in the advance of General Burnside's expedition.

September 1, 1862.—Sawyers' Battalion entered Knoxville, Tenn., in advance of all other Federal troops—were the first Federal troops that took command of the city. The battalion marched from Knoxville to Strawberry Plains, thence to Maynardsville, and thence to Knoxville, capturing in the round 17 prisoners; then marched from Knoxville to Rutledge, thence to Morristown, thence by railroad to Rogersville Junction, and thence to Greeneville. Several members of the First Battalion being unable, on account of sickness, want of horses, and other causes, to march on the 8th of August, were left at Camp Nelson, Ky., under command of Lieut. Col. Thomas J. Capps. During the month of August, 1863, Companies D, E, F, G and H were organized and mustered in at Camp Nelson. About the last of August these companies, and the men left behind belonging to the First Battalion, the whole under command of Lieut. Col. Capps, took up the line of march for East Tennessee, by way of Cumberland Gap, as part of the brigade commanded by Col. DeCoursey. They arrived in front of the Gap on the 8th of September, and took part in the operations at the Gap on the 8th and 9th. The Gap and garrison surrendered on the 9th of September. Lieut. Col. Capps, with his command, marched through on the 11th and joined the First Battalion at Greeneville, Tenn., on the 14th. The detachments of Companies A, B and C, which were left at Camp Nelson on the 8th of August, were placed under command of Capt. McFall, of Company A, and commanded by him until their arrival at Greeneville, Tenn., on the 14th of September, when he took command of his own company.

September 17, 1863.—One hundred men, mostly from Companies A and G, were detailed by order of Col. John W. Foster, commanding brigade, for the purpose of cutting the East Tennessee and Virginia Railroad between Johnson's Depot and Carter's Depot, and between Carter's Depot and Union—it being understood at the time the detail was made that the enemy's infantry was at Jonesboro. and his cavalry at Bristol or Union. The object of cutting the road was to prevent the enemy from reinforcing his cavalry with his infantry, while our cavalry could move via Kingsport to Bristol or Union, and attack and route the rebel cavalry, then move on the infantry. The detachment of one hundred men, under command of Capt. F. M. McFall and C. C. Kenner, marched from Greeneville, Tenn., at 3½ P. M., crossed the Nolichucky River, three miles South of Greeneville, and turning to the East, followed the road on the south bank of the river as far as Embreeville, Washington county, when it recrossed the river about 11 o'clock in the night, at one of the most dangerous fords on it, without losing a man, though the night was very dark, and the river slightly swollen. After crossing the river the command passed through the Greasy Cove and down Buffalo Creek, to a point within four miles of one of the points on the railroad where it was to be cut—Dr. C. C. Taylor's. Arriving there just at daybreak a halt was made, for the purpose of obtaining information in regard to the whereabouts of the enemy, when it was ascertained that he had evacuated Jonesboro on the day before, and was then encamped along the railroad where it was to be cut, rendering it impossible for this detachment to accomplish the object of its expedition. While this information was being obtained, the advance guard was fired into by a squad of rebels, to which chase was immediately given, and after pursuing them to within one mile of their camp the detachment left the main road, and by by-ways, mostly through woods, marched to Jonesboro, a distance of ten miles, from where the advance guard was fired upon. At Jonesboro though within seven miles of a rebel force, 4,000 strong, a halt was made for the purpose of feeding and resting, having marched over sixty miles after leaving Greeneville. A few hours after the arrival at Jonesboro a battalion of the Twelfth Kentucky Cavalry arrived, with which the detachment fell in until it could rejoin the regiment.

September 21.—Marched from Jonesboro for Carter's Depot: struck the enemy's outpost one mile east of Johnson's Depot, where skirmishing commenced, which was kept up until the command reached Carter's Depot, the enemy falling back to that point, which he abandoned that night. During these operations, the detachment acted with the Twelfth Kentucky, as part Col. Carter's brigade. Rejoined the regiment (Eighth Tennessee Cavalry) on the 25th. Fifteen men of Company A who remained with the regiment under command of Lieut. James T. Johnson, were engaged in a skirmish at Kingsport on the 18th, in which private Alfred Eastep was wounded. Also engaged at Union on the 20th, and Blountville on the 22d. (Blountville burnt.)

September 25.—The whole command arrived at Greeneville; thence it returned to Knoxville, and lay in camp during the remainder of the month.

October 2, 1863.—7 o'clock, P. M.—Marched south, arriving at Philadelphia on the 3d, when a halt was made until the night of the 5th, when the command (Col. Foster's brigade,) set out on its return to Knoxville; arrived there on the 6th, and on the 7th commenced another expedition east of Knoxville; arrived at Rogersville on the 9th. On the 10th marched for Rheatown, Greene county. Company A was the advance guard of the brigade. Reached Rheatown at 12 o'clock in the night and finding no pickets dashed into town—no enemy there.

October 11.—Engaged with the enemy from 12 o'clock M, until nearly night—drove him eight miles east of Rheatown.

October 13.—Marched to Hall's Ford on the Holston River.

October 14.—Marched to Blountville—the enemy having fallen back beyond Bristol

October 17.—Commenced retreating westward: passed through Union, (Zollicoffer); destroyed the railroad track for several miles west of Union; marched to Davalt's Ford, on the Watauga River; then back to Union—nine miles, where the command (part of the Eighth Tennessee Cavalry) remained until 9 o'clock, P. M., when the place was abandoned, and the command fell back to Davalt's Ford.

October 19.—Major Bentley while on a reconnoissance in the vicinity of Union with 80 men, were attacked by a greatly superior force, and routed with about 30 men captured, 5 of whom were members of Company A, viz: Privates Alfred Harper, John Potter, Morgan Presley, Gilbert Presley and Ephraim Ward, all died in prison at Danville, Va.

October 29.—The Brigade fell back to Henderson's Station, six miles east of Greenville, and went into camp.

November 1, 1863.—In camp at Henderson's Station.

November 2.—The regiment was dismounted by order of Colonel John W. Foster, Commanding Brigade.

November 4.—Transported to Knoxville by railroad. In camp at Knoxville until the 15th of November, when ordered out to assist in the defense of that place, and continued on duty on the right of the line of fortifications during the remainder of the month.

December 1, 1863.—Company A continued on the extreme right of the line of fortifications.

December 4.—The siege by Longstreet which commenced on the 15th of November, was raised.

December 15.—Commenced the march on foot from Knoxville to Camp Nelson, Ky., in charge of prisoners captured before Knoxville during the siege; arrived at Camp Nelson on the 27th, 185 miles.

January 1, 1864.—In camp at Camp Nelson. The Regiment was transferred from Camp Nelson, Ky. to Nashville, Tenn.

February 6, 1864.—The Eighth and Tenth consolidated at Nashville.

March 8, 1866.

Late Captain Co. A Eighth Tennessee Cav. Vol.

COMPANY E.—This Company was organized by Capt. L. M. Jarvis on the 10th day of October, 1863, at Sneedville, Tenn.; was commanded by him to March 16, 1865, when Capt. Jarvis resigned. William B. Davis was First Lieutenant from organization to June, 1864, when he was promoted to the rank of Major of the Regiment. John W. Cope was Second Lieutenant from its organization to October 1864, when he resigned. William P. Testerman, 1st Sergeant, was promoted to First Lieutenant July 11, 1864; served to July 29, 1865, when he was promoted to a Captaincy, and was the last Captain of the Company. F. M. Turner, Q. M. Sergeant, was promoted to the rank of Second Lieutenant April, 1865, and served until the muster out of the organization. The Company fought with the enemy at Greenville, Morristown, Bull's Gap, Russellville, Flat Creek and Kingsport, Tenn., Marion, Wytheville and Saltville, Va., and Saulsbury, N. C.

KILLED IN ACTION.—Robert Turner, Andrew McCloud, James E. Gibson.

WOUNDED IN ACTION.—Harris Bell, Alfred Miner, Sam'l M. Paine, Woodson Cope.

DIED OF DISEASE.—Richard Livesay, Leonard A. Davis, William Collins, George Anderson, Franklin Mitchell, William G. Heath, Leroy Cope, George Anderson, Thomas J. Brewer, Shepard Gibson.

DESERTED.—Gilfred Miner, Stokeley Lawson, Ira England, William F. Shelton, Freelin H. Gibson, Shepard Gibson, Sr., Jesse Rhea, Carter H. Anderson, Daniel

Gilbert, Kelly Gibson, John Mosley, John Dulaney, Henry Hackney, William Turner, William Rice.

The Company was mustered out of service at Knoxville, Tenn., on the 11th day of September, 1865.

COMPANY G was organized and mustered into the service of the United States at Camp Nelson, Ky., on the 14th day of August, 1863. C. C. Kenner was mustered as Captain, John S. Mott First Lieutenant, and Wm. E. Cunningham Second Lieutenant. The Company was mustered into service by Lieut. J. L. Warden; the officers of the Company were mustered the same day. The Company participated in the chase of Colonel Scott (C. S. Army) through the State of Kentucky in August, 1863. The Company was detached with a portion of the Regiment in August, 1863, and attached to a Brigade commanded by Col. DeCoursey, and remained in this command until the capture of Cumberland Gap, September, 1863. After which it reported to the Regiment at Greenville, Tenn., which belonged to the 3d Brigade, 4th Division, Department of Ohio. The Company then with the Regiment participated in the skirmish at Kingsport, September, 1863; the attack on Zollicoffer, September 20, 1863; the battle of Blountville, September 19, 1863, and in the battle of Rheatown, October 10, 1863. The Company, with the remainder of the Regiment, was then dismounted at Henderson's Station, Tenn., November 3, 1863, and sent to Knoxville on the 5th of November, at which place the Regiment remained and participated in the siege of Knoxville, fortifying and defending the city, which commenced on the 14th day of November, 1863, and lasted till December 4, 1863. The Company remained at Knoxville until December 15, 1863, when the Regiment was detailed to guard prisoners to Camp Nelson, Ky. Lieutenant John S. Mott resigned about the 18th of December, 1863. The Regiment arrived at Camp Nelson on the 28th of December, 1863; left Camp Nelson in January, 1864, for Nashville, Tenn., at which place it arrived January, 1864, (which time the Eighth and Tenth Tennessee Cavalry were consolidated, Companies H and G were consolidated and known as Company G,) and from Nashville to Columbia, Tenn., from Columbia to Franklin, then to Gallatin, Tenn., from Gallatin to Knoxville, where we arrived October 5, 1864; from Knoxville to Morristown, from there to Springvale, (joined the Brigade commanded by Brigadier General A. C. Gillem,) thence to Bull's Gap, Tenn., from there to New Market, Tenn., by way of Bean Station, when the Company had an engagement with the enemy in the gap of Clinch Mountain, (one man wounded,) arrived at New Market, October, 1864. Had an engagement with the enemy at Morristown, Tenn., October 28, 1864; drove them in disorder, capturing many prisoners and artillery, losing two men of Company G in the engagement. Next engagement was at Bull's Gap, November, 1864. March the 8th, 1865, Capt. C. C. Kenner was promoted Major, and Lieut. John C. Bible promoted Captain of Company G, Eighth Tennessee Cavalry. On the 21st of March, 1865, left Knoxville under Generals Gillem and Stoneman for the great raid in Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia. The Company was in the fight at Wytheville, Virginia, and the battle at Saulsbury, North Carolina, losing one man at the latter place; returned to Tennessee in May, 1863, and was mustered out September 11, 1865, at Knoxville, Tennessee.

ORDER OF CONGRATULATION.

HEADQUARTERS 9TH TENNESSEE CAVALRY, }
Bull's Gap, Tenn., Sept. 8, 1864. }

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 16.

I. The Lieutenant Colonel commanding congratulates the officers and enlisted men of the 9th Tennessee Cavalry on the recent successes which have crowned their arms.

Much was expected of men fighting for their homes and firesides in the holy cause of free government, but the officers and men of the 9th Tennessee Cavalry have surpassed the expectations of their commanding officer.

They have exhibited a spirit of gallantry and devotion worthy of the descendants of the men who fought at King's mountain, and wherever the divine right of self-government has been denied.

He takes pride in commending them for the promptness and energy with which they have obeyed the orders of their superior officers.

II. Private Martin L. Kersey, Co. M, 9th Tennessee Cavalry, is hereby appointed Sergeant of the same company, as a reward for his gallantry in the engagements of Blue Springs and Greeneville, while suffering from a painful flesh wound, received early in the action at Blue Springs.

By order of LT.-COL. JOHN B. BROWNLOW,
Commanding 9th Tennessee Cavalry.

ALBERT S. BAYLESS, First Lieut. and Adj.

An account of the fight between Gen. Gillem's Brigade and the Rebel Gen. John Morgan's command, in which the 9th Cavalry participated honorably, will be found in the Memoranda of the Thirteenth Cavalry.

TENTH REGIMENT.

MEMORANDA.

The organization of the Tenth Cavalry was begun under the supervision of Col. G. W. Bridges. The Regiment was organized at Nashville, and attached to the command of Col. Geo. Spalding, Second Brigade, 4th Division of Cavalry. During the Summer and Fall of 1864, it was engaged in arduous duty in Tennessee. Late in the Fall it was sent to Northern Alabama, to watch the movements of Hood's army, and had an engagement with a largely superior force of Rebels at Florence: Overpowered by numbers it was compelled to fall back to Nashville, where it was transferred to the First Brigade, 5th Division, Cavalry Corps, M. D. M., commanded by Brig.-Gen. Edmund Hatch, and participated largely in the numerous engagements attending Hood's raid into Tennessee. On the first day's battle before Nashville, it lost severely in officers and men. Its commander, Major William P. Story, was severely wounded, and the command was assumed by Major James T. Abernathy. At the close of the campaign the Regiment was transferred to the First Brigade, 7th Division, Cavalry Corps, and was sent from Eastport to New Orleans, in which Department it remained until June 10, 1865.

Company A was detached from its Regiment on the 26th day of April, per Special Order, No. 31, from Adjutant General's Office, State of Tennessee, and assigned to duty at Springfield, Tenn., where it remained until August, 1864, when it was taken by Brig.-Gen. A. C. Gillem, and used as an escort company during his brilliant campaign in East Tennessee, where it took an active part and rendered much good service.

Company B was organized by Capt. Wm. P. Storey, and mustered into the U. S. service at Nashville, on the 25th day of October, 1863. During the campaign in Tennessee, under Gen. Thomas, while operating against Hood's army, it bore a hard but valiant part. It was commanded by Capt. Duff throughout.

Company C was organized by Capt. A. R. P. Toncray, on the 29th day of January, 1864, and was constantly with its Regiment since its original organization. It participated in all the engagements during the raids of Forrest and Wheeler through Tennessee, and met with heavy loss during the campaign in Dec., 1864.

Company D was organized by Capt. Calvin P. Simmons. On account of ill health he was subsequently dismissed from the service, when 1st Lieut. John A. Davis was commissioned Captain. The Company has made a glorious record in the annals of the Regiment.

Company E was organized by Capt. James Ware, and mustered into service Feb. 26, 1864, and has been constantly on duty with its Regiment, participating in every fight or skirmish the Regiment has taken part in, and always won for itself the name of being as gallant and untiring as any other in the service.

Company F was organized on the 25th day of February, 1865, by Capt. Russ B. Davis, with the assistance of its valuable Lieutenants, Thomas Orr and J. F. Owen. It was detached from its Regiment in May, 1864, and sent to McMinnville, Warren County, Tenn. It was afterwards detached and was the first Company to disembark and occupy Rodney, Miss., on the Mississippi River, where it acquitted itself nobly.

Company G was organized by Capt. D. W. Baker, on the 23d day of February, 1865, and was immediately detached from its Regiment, and assigned to duty on the N. & N. W. R. R., at Sec. 140. It mustered into service 103 men. Its losses have been comparatively small. Capt. Baker resigned Dec., 1864, and Lieut. James M. McGill was commissioned Captain, April 15, 1865.

Company H was mustered into service under Capt. Jonathan H. Hall. Capt. J. A. N. Bryan then assumed command.

Company I was organized at Nashville, on the 23d of March, 1864, by Capt. Fred W. Baker, and was afterwards assigned to duty at Snedville, on the N. & N. W. R. R., where it remained during April and May. It was with the Regiment in all its engagements with Forrest and Wheeler. During the summer of 1864, acquitting itself with credit, it also took an active part in all the engagements with Hood.

Company K was organized by Capt. Allen G. Anderson in June 1865, and was on detached duty for some time.

Company L was never fully organized. Forty-one men were mustered into service under Lieut. Tudson Wise, who died soon after from small-pox. Sergt. C. L. Reynolds was then commissioned 1st Lieut. This detachment was stationed on the N. & N. W. R. R., and did much good work in the way of extinguishing guerrillas.

Sixty-three men of Company M were mustered into the U. S. service in Oct, 1864, William H. Hampton, as 1st Lieut., as unassigned recruits. They were a body of good men, and served during the campaign of Gens. Thomas and Hood as a Provost guard and escort company, at Headquarters, 1st Brigade, 5th Division, C. C. M. D. M., where they acquitted themselves with honor to themselves and credit to their commanding officer.

ELEVENTH REGIMENT.

CAVALRY.

[The Eleventh Cavalry Regiment never completed its organization, but was consolidated with the Ninth Cavalry. It was commenced by Isham Young, who was commissioned as Colonel September 25, 63, R. A. Davis, Lieutenant Colonel, James H. Johnson, first Major, and Edward Black, second Major.]

MEMORANDA.

The 12th Tennessee Cavalry was organized by companies. The first company was mustered in August 24th, 1863. On the 22d of February, 1864, six companies had been mustered and George Spalding was commissioned Lieut. Colonel. The Regiment was assigned to the second brigade, fourth division, Cavalry A. C., commanded by Gen A. C. Gillem, and was ordered to section 51, N. & N. W. R. R. for the purpose of protecting it against the numerous bands of guerrillas infesting that portion of country. On April 14th, Lieut. Col. Spalding was placed in command of the 2d Brigade. In obedience to orders from Gen. Gillem the Brigade left section 51 N. & N. W. R. R., May 27th, and arrived at Nashville May 29th, 1864. June 1st the Brigade was ordered to Tullahoma, Tenn., to report temporarily to Brig. Gen. Payne. June 8th the Regiment was ordered to Decherd, Tenn., on the N. & C. R. R. While at Tullahoma and Dechard it was continually scouting and had several severe skirmishes with guerrillas. Capt. J. C. Rodgers, Co. E., was killed June 14th in one of these engagements. June 23d the Regiment was ordered to Pulaski, where it arrived the 26th. July 15th it was ordered to Huntsville, Ala., but upon arrival at Elkton, Tenn., the orders were countermanded, and it was ordered to return to Pulaski, Tenn. July 20th it was ordered on a scout to Florence, Ala. Returned to Pulaski the 26th. August 8th the Regiment engaged Roddy's force at Florence, Ala., in which engagement Lieut. Cunningham, Co. L., was killed. It then proceeded to Clifton, Tenn., where it had a severe engagement with the rebel Biffles' command, in which the Regiment lost one man killed and seven or eight wounded. August 16th the Regiment having 12 companies mustered Lieut. Col. George Spalding was commissioned and mustered Colonel. General Gillem, having been assigned to the command of the Governor's Guard, Col Spalding being the ranking officer present assumed command of the Division August 18th, 1864. August 26th the Regiment, with the Brigade, went to Tullahoma, Tenn., to oppose the forces under the rebel Gen. Wheeler then making a raid through Middle Tennessee. From Tullahoma it moved to Murfreesboro in pursuit of Gen. Cerro Gordo Williams, who was commanding a division of Wheeler's cavalry. Continued the pursuit to Triune, Tenn., where it had a severe engagement with William's command, capturing many prisoners and causing the rebels to make a hasty retreat.

In obedience to orders from Maj. Gen. Rousseau, the Regiment started to join him, who was then in the vicinity of Columbia, pursuing the larger part of Wheeler's cavalry. From Columbia it proceeded to Pulaski, arriving there Sept. 7th; thence to Elkton, thence to Shoal Creek, where it joined Gen. Rousseau's command. Gen. Wheeler having escaped across the Tennessee river, the Regiment was ordered to Pulaski where it arrived Sept. 12th. Sept. 21st the Regiment left Pulaski to make a reconnoissance in the direction of Florence, Ala., where it ascertained that Gen. Forrest had crossed the Tennessee river, at the mouth of Cyprus Creek, and was making in the direction of Athens, Ala. The Regiment, after capturing several wagons and a number of prisoners, returned with all possible speed to Pulaski, arriving at that place on the night of the 25th inst. It left Pulaski at 3 o'clock on the morning of the 26th to contest the approach of Forrest who had captured Athens, Ala., and was moving on Pulaski, tearing up the railroad as he advanced. The Regiment engaged the enemy at Sulphur Branch Trestle Sept. 26th; at Richland Creek Sept. 27th and 28th, and at Pulaski the 28th. The rebels, confident of success, made vigorous and repeated charges, but were as often repulsed. Here the Regiment lost two officers wounded, two men killed and twenty wounded. On the 29th the Regiment moved out to ascertain which way Forrest had gone, as he withdrew his forces in the night. It was ascertained that he had moved in the direction of Fayetteville. The pursuit was continued about fifteen miles, when the Colonel received orders to return to Pulaski, which he did on Sept. 30th, 1864. October 10th, 1864, the Regiment was assigned to duty with Gen. J. T. Croxton, commanding the 1st Brigade, 2d Division, Cavalry A. C., and ordered to Florence, Ala., for the purpose of watching Hood's army, which had moved up to Tusculum, Ala., and assist in opposing the enemy in crossing the Tennessee river. November 10th, the Cavalry Corps having been reorganized, the Regiment was assigned to the 5th Division, Cav. Corps, Mil. Div. Miss., commanded by Brig. Gen. Edward Hatch, who had assumed command of all the forces opposing Hood's advance on Nashville. The Regiment was continually engaged in skirmishing with the enemy till Nov. 30th; was in the fight at Lawrenceburg Nov. 21st; at Campbellsville Nov. 24th; Spring Hill Nov. 29th, and Franklin Nov. 30th, 1864. Dec. 1st the Regiment moved with the Army of Gen. Thomas to Nashville, thence to Edgefield, where it was busily engaged in refitting and remounting up to Dec. 12th when it moved with the Cavalry Corps to the west side of Nashville, Tenn. Dec. 15th and 16th the Regiment took an active part in the battle of Nashville, making several sabre charges, capturing Gen. Rucker, about two hundred prisoners, Gen. Chalmers' train of twenty-five wagons, and assisting in capturing two forts and guns that were taken by Gen. Hatch's Division. From Nashville the Regiment was in the advance in the pursuit of Hood, and had several severe fights, and fired the last shot at the enemy as they crossed the Tennessee river at Bainbridge, Ala., Dec. 30th, 1864. The losses of the Regiment in the campaign with Hood were as follows: Lt. Col. C. C. Haefling wounded in the battle of Spring Hill; Maj. Sater Boland mortally wounded in the battle of Franklin, Tenn., Capt. J. M. Jourdan wounded—left arm amputated;—Adj. Hervey A. Colvin A. A. A. G., 5th Div. C. C. M. D. M., wounded; Lt. W. J. Rankin killed, and about fifty men killed and wounded in battle of Nashville. Col. Spalding received honorable mention for his energy and bravery in the official report of Gen. Hatch. The following is an extract from Gen. Thomas' official report:

73. "As the 4th Corps pursued the enemy on the Franklin Pike, Gen. Wilson hastily mounted Knieps and Hatch's divisions of his command, and directed them to pursue along the Granny White Pike and endeavor to reach Franklin in advance of the enemy. After proceeding about a mile they came upon the enemy's cavalry under Chalmers, posted across the roads and behind barricades. The position was charged by the 12th Tenn. Cav., Col. Spalding commanding, and the enemy's lines broken, scattering him in all directions, and capturing quite a number of prisoners, among them Brig. Gen. E. W. Rucker."

After Hood crossed the Tennessee river the Regiment started to Huntsville, Ala. On Jan. 2d, 1865, when about eight miles from Huntsville, it was ordered to go to Eastport, Miss. It arrived at Highland, opposite Eastport Jan. 12th. Jan. 14th, it was ordered back to Gravelly Springs, Ala., to establish winter quarters. Arrived at Gravelly Springs Jan. 15th, and immediately began building huts and stables for winter quarters. February 7th it started to Eastport, Miss., after having turned over its horses. Arrived at Eastport Feb. 8th and went into camp where it remained till May 11th, going on frequent scouts through Alabama and Mississippi, and having several skirmishes with guerrillas. The Regiment was transferred from the 2d to the 1st Brigade, 5th Div., C. C. M. D. M., under command of Brevet Brig. Gen. George Spalding, and the Regiment was ordered to St. Louis, Mo., to report to Major Gen. Pope. It left Eastport May 11th by steamer and arrived at St. Louis May 17th, 1865. The Regiment was remounted and refitted and sent to Fort Leavenworth to report to Gen. Mitchell. Left St. Louis May 30th, and arrived at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, June 7th. On the 18th the Regiment started as an escort for a party of surveyors with orders to establish camp on the North Fork of Solomon River, west of the 2d Guide meridian, which point it reached July 10th, 1865. The Regiment furnished the surveyor's a sufficient escort and the rest of the Regiment scouted the country through Southern Nebraska and Northern Kansas, as far as the Colorado line. Sept. 3d, orders having been received to return to Fort Leavenworth for muster out, the Regiment started to Fort Leavenworth where it arrived Sept. 18th. Oct. 7th, the Regiment was mustered out by Capt. Hubbard, 13th Mo. Cav., and A. C. M., and started to Nashville Oct. 9th, where it arrived the 19th, and was finally paid and discharged Oct. 24th, 1865.

Respectfully,

GEO. SPALDING,

Col. 12th Tenn. Cav. Bvt. Brig. Genl.

Company A was mustered into the United States service August 24, 1863, and was on patrol duty at Nashville, Tenn., till Dec. 14, 1863, when it marched to Charlotte, Tenn., and remained at that place until April, 15, 1864, when it was ordered to join the Regiment at Camp Gillem, at section 51, N. & N. W. R. R. Thence to Nashville, Tenn., May 28, 1864; thence to Duck River Bridge, Tenn.; thence to Decherd station, scouting the country between that part and the Cumberland Mountains. Was engaged in a fight with the guerrilla Davis and his band, killing him and two of his men near Lynchburgh, Tenn. June 26, 1864, was engaged with rebel Gen. Wheeler's force at Triune, Tenn., Aug. 28, 1864, and in pursuit of him to the Tennessee River. Was engaged with the rebel Gen. Forrest's command at Sulphur Branch Trestle Sept. 25th, 1864; at Richland Creek Bridge Sept. 26, 1864, and at Pulaski, Tenn., Sept. 27, 1864. Was in an engagement with Roddy's forces at Florence, Ala., Aug. 10, 1864; with Biffle's forces at Clifton, Tenn., Aug 15, 1864. Marched from Pulaski, Tenn., to Florence, Ala., Oct. 17, 1864, and was engaged with Hood's advance in all the battles between that point and Nashville, Tenn., viz.: Lynnville, Campbellville, Spring Hill, and Franklin. Was in the defense of Nashville, in the engagements before that place Dec. 15 and 16, 1864, and all the battles during this retreat to the Tennessee River. Marched to Gravelly Springs, Ala., Jan. 10, 1865.

Company B was organized Oct. 31, 1863, at Nashville, Tenn., by Capt Jason A. Bradshaw, and was engaged in scouting along the N. & N. W. R. R. in the vicinity, of Charlotte, Tenn., until April, when it was ordered to section 42 N. & N. W. R. R., and remained there guarding trestle until April 10th, when it joined the Regiment at Camp Gillem, Tenn. Remained there until May 26th, when it returned to Nashville, Tenn. Left Nashville and was engaged in scouting from there to Cumberland Mountain in Lincoln county, Tenn., until June 26, when it reached Pulaski, Tenn. Headquarters were kept here until Nov. 20, 1864, when they were removed to Nashville, Tenn. During the Summer and Fall the Company was engaged in scouting between Pulaski, Tenn. and Tennessee River. Was engaged at Florence, Aug. 7, 1864; at Clifton, Tenn., Aug. 14, 1864; at Elk River, Ala., July 22, 1864. It was engaged with Gen. Williams at Triune, Tenn., Aug. 4, 1864. Participated in the campaign caused by the raid of Gen. Wheeler in August, 1864. Was engaged with Forrest's cavalry near Pulaski Sept. 25, 26, and 27, 1864, and Oct. 17 was sent to Tennessee River, in the vicinity of Florence, Ala., to guard the ferds and ferries and prevent the rebels crossing it. Was engaged in opposing the advance of Hood into Tennessee. Participated in the battles of Campbellsville, Nov. 24, Spring Hill Nov. 30, and Franklin Nov. 30, when it marched to Nashville and was engaged in the defense of that place, Dec. 15 and 16, 1864.

Company M was organized from the re-enlisted men of the 2d West Tenn. and 1st Ala. Cav., on the 28th of August, 1864, at Pulaski, Tenn. The Company was engaged in the rifle pits at Pulaski, Tenn. Sept. 27th, 1864, repulsing the rebel generals Wheeler and Roddy. From that time until Dec 28th, 1864, when the rebel Gen. Hood, with the remnant of his force, recrossed the Tennessee River, the Company was actively engaged leading the advance and skirmishing with the enemy constantly. Then stationed at Gravelly Springs until Feb. 5th 1865, when marched to Eastport, Miss. Remained at that place until May 10th, 1865, when it marched enroute for Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, where it arrived June 8th, 1865. The Company was placed on patrol duty by order of Gen. Mitchell and remained on that duty until the order for muster out was received.

MEMORANDA.

The Thirteenth Regiment Tennessee Cavalry Volunteers was organized by Col. John K. Miller, of Carter county, at Strawberry Plains, Tenn., September, 1863; was not fully equipped, however, until it reached Camp Nelson, Ky., in the month of December. It was mounted at this point, and marched through Kentucky to Nashville, Tenn., doing some service on the road in the way of killing and capturing guerrillas. The regiment remained at Nashville during the Spring of 1864: was ordered on post duty at Gallatin, Tenn., during the Summer, until August 4 64, when it was attached to the brigade known as the "Brigade of Governor Guards," commanded by General Gillem. This regiment formed a part of the force operating in East Tennessee against the rebel cavalry under Gens. Morgan, Vaughn and Breckinridge; acted a conspicuous part in the killing of Morgan and the route and capture of his force at Greeneville, Tenn. On the 4th of September, 1864, Morgan was killed by a private soldier belonging to Co. G, Thirteenth Tenn. Vol. Cav., who was afterwards promoted for gallantry by Gen. Gillem.

The following account of the fight at Greeneville was written at the time by a Tennessee officer who was in the various engagements:

BULL'S GAP, September 7, 1864.

On the evening of the 3d inst., at 6 o'clock P. M., a courier reported to Col. Miller that the enemy were advancing, and were in camp two miles this side of Greeneville, and that scouts were being sent down as far as Blue Springs. Col. Miller immediately went to Gen. Gillem, and after a short consultation the command was ordered to be in readiness to move at once. Accordingly at 11 o'clock the 13th Tennessee Cavalry moved out, and was ordered to proceed to Greeneville by the way of the Arnett road, passing around on the left flank of the enemy, and get in their rear by 6 o'clock, A. M., and at 12½ o'clock the balance of the command moved out, notwithstanding it was the darkest night I ever saw, and the rain poured down in torrents, and the vivid lightning flashed along the sky, and the distant roll of the thunder only made the night more gloomy; yet our gallant leaders pushed ahead with untiring energy, and our troops, with cheerful hearts, proudly followed on. At 6 o'clock, A. M., the pickets of the enemy were attacked, and the out-posts found asleep. They were steadily driven back by Maj. Newell's command—the 10th Michigan Cavalry—who had the advance for about three miles, when the firing from Col. Ingerton, who had got in their rear, was heard, when the 9th Tennessee Cavalry was ordered to push the enemy as fast as possible, when they dashed ahead with drawn sabres and a yell, which scattered the enemy in all directions. They succeeded in getting around Col. Ingerton's right flank, but not without the loss of several killed, and some forty taken prisoners by the gallant 13th. In the meantime Col. Ingerton had sent two companies, (I and G,) of his regiment, to town, who surprised General Morgan and Staff, who were at Mrs. Williams'. Morgan ran out and tried to escape before he had time to dress himself, but the gallant and energetic Capt. Wilcox surrounded the garden, and before he could escape, Andy Campbell, a private in Company G, shot him, the ball passing through his heart. The two companies captured his entire Staff, and taking the remains of Morgan on a horse returned to the command, without the loss of a man; although about 1,000 of the enemy were in their rear, after which the whole column passed into town, led by the gallant and chivalrous Brigade commander, Col. Miller, when he found the enemy's artillery planted upon College Hill. He ordered Col. Brownlow to take his regiment around the left flank of the hill, where their battery was placed; he also ordered Col. Ingerton around on the right flank, which orders were promptly carried out, which move caused the enemy to break, being nearly surrounded, leaving two caisson wagons complete, and one army wagon. So closely were they pressed by Col. Miller that they abandoned two pieces of artillery, their baggage wagons, &c. He drove them about four miles, and abandoned the chase, his horses being so much fatigued that it was folly to pursue them further.

We captured in all, some seventy prisoners, killing and wounding from fifty to a hundred, without the loss of a man killed, and but six wounded, two supposed to be mortally.

The officers and soldiers have conducted themselves well in the four engagements that we have had with Morgan's command since our arrival in this portion of the country, in all of which we have been successful, capturing and killing a considerable number of the enemy. I feel proud of the officers and soldiers, who have behaved themselves not only as gentlemen, but as soldiers. Lieut.-Col. John B. Brownlow, commanding the 9th Tennessee Cavalry, is a high-minded and accomplished gentleman and a good officer. He has a good regiment—men that have behaved well in action as well as in camp; in fact, in every place they have been tried. Lieut. Col. W. H. Ingerton, commanding the 13th Tennessee Cavalry, is one of the finest cavalry officers in the United States service, and now commands one of the best cavalry regiments in the service. The battery is a splendid one, commanded by Lieut. Patterson, one of the best artillery officers of the age—prompt, quick, energetic and accomplished: All the officers and soldiers of this battery are true and good men.

The regiment was also in a fight at Morristown on the 28th of October, 1864, which resulted in the route of Gen. Vaughn and capture of McClung's battery. On the 13th of November, 1861, at Bull's Gap, Gen. Gillem's brigade met and repelled the furious attacks of the rebels under General Breckinridge, when at last compelled to yield their stronghold for want of supplies. Amidst the general confusion this regiment, led by Col. Miller, acquitted itself well, and arrived at Strawberry Plains with very slight loss of men or arms. This regiment formed a part of the command, under Generals Stoneman and Gillem, which did such signal work in Southwestern Virginia, in December, 1864. This regiment, then commanded by Col. Stacey, made a gallant charge, and captured Fort Breckinridge, at King's Salt Works, Va. It also formed a part of the command which, under General Stoneman raided through North and South Carolinas and Georgia in the Spring of 1865; acted its part well in an engagement at Saulisbury, N. C. The regiment returned to Knoxville June, 1865; moved from there to Lenoir's Station; then to Sweetwater; then back to Knoxville, where they were mustered out of service September 5, 1866.

ORDER OF CONGRATULATION.

HEADQUARTERS 13TH REGIMENT TENNESSEE CAVALRY, }
Bull's Gap, Tenn., Sept. 7, 1864. }

ORDERS No. 95.

I. The Lieutenant Colonel Commanding the 13th Regiment Tennessee Cavalry, takes a pride in saying that the officers and enlisted men under his command have surpassed his most sanguine expectations, and exhibited a spirit of gallantry and determination that would do honor to veteran soldiers. He takes pleasure in commending them for the promptness and energy with which they have discharged their duty in the presence of the enemy, and congratulates them upon the success which has attended them in expelling from their homes the presumptuous foe, who had attempted to teach East Tennesseans disloyalty to their government.

II. Private Andrew Campbell, of Company G, 13th Tennessee Cavalry, is hereby appointed 1st Sergeant of Company, E, of this regiment, a reward for his gallantry at the engagement at Greeneville, Tenn., on the 4th inst., and for his success in arresting, by an accurate shot, the flight of Gen. John H. Morgan, one of our country's most prominent enemies. By command of

Lt. Col. WM. H. INGERTON, Comd'g 13th Tenn. Cavalry.

SAM'L W. SCOTT, 1st Lieut and Act'g Adj't.

BRADFORD'S BATTALION.

MEMORANDA.

A Battalion of Cavalry was raised by Major W. F. Bradford in December, 1863, and January, 1864, consisting of four Companies, and organized at Union City, Tenn. It was first incorrectly designated the 13th Cavalry. The following orders and report gives its history. Company A, on the 14th of February, 1865, was consolidated with the 6th Tennessee Cavalry, by an order from the Adjutant General's office, and was known as Company E.

II. Companies A, B, C and D of a Battalion of Tennessee Cavalry, organized by Major W. F. Bradford, and erroneously designated the 13th Regiment Tennessee Cavalry, and as such mustered into the United States service for the term of three years, by Lieut. George W. Tetterman, 15th U. S. Infantry, A. C. M., 6th Division, 16th A. C., as follows: Company A, Dec. 5, 1863; Company B, Dec. 16, 1863; Companies C and D, Jan. 20, 1864; having been reduced below the minimum required for two Companies by killed and taken prisoners at Fort Pillow, Tenn., are hereby consolidated and will be known as a part of the 14th Regiment Tennessee Cavalry. The organization thus formed by the consolidation of the Companies as above named will be designated as Company A

HEADQUARTERS FOURTEENTH REGIMENT TENNESSEE CAVALRY,
Tennessee Barracks, Nashville, January 1, 1865.

CAPT. EDWARD S. RICHARDS,

Asst. Adjt. General of Tennessee, Nashville:

Captain.—In accordance with instructions contained in a circular issued from the Adjutant General's office of the State of Tennessee, bearing date November 1, 1864, I have the honor herewith to submit the following report of the Fourteenth Regiment Cavalry of Tennessee Volunteers:

This Regiment, formerly erroneously designated the Thirteenth Regiment, was recruited and organized into a Battalion of four Companies at Union City, and mustered into the United States service on the 26th day of December, 1863, commanded by Major William F. Bradford. It remained at Union City chiefly engaged in recruiting and scouting the surrounding country until the 3d day of February, 1864, when it received orders from Brigadier General W. S. Smith, then Chief of Cavalry of the Military Division of the Mississippi, to establish its headquarters at Fort Pillow, Tennessee, where it was ordered to use all diligence in recruiting and mounting. For the latter purpose we were authorized to impress horses from both the loyal and disloyal, giving vouchers only to those who might furnish unmistakable evidence of their loyalty to the Government of the United States. In pursuance of these orders and instructions from the Chief of Cavalry of the Military Division of the Mississippi, we took up our line of march on the 4th of February, 1864, via the Mobile and Ohio Railroad, to Columbus, Ky., and from thence down the Mississippi River to Fort Pillow, Tenn., where we arrived on the evening of the 8th of February, 1864. Recruiting at this point for various reasons, did not progress as rapidly as was at first anticipated, and it was not until the 1st of April following that our fifth Company, under command of Capt. Poston, was ready for muster into the United States service. Repeated applications were made to the Major General commanding at Memphis to have a mustering officer sent to perform the muster, but for some cause unknown to the authorities at Fort Pillow no officer could be sent for that purpose. At length a representation of these facts was made to Brigadier General R. P. Brickland, then commanding District of Memphis, and an order from him was obtained to take the Company to Memphis for the purpose of there being mustered into the service. At the time the order was received, however, which was on or about the 10th of April, Fort Pillow was being threatened by the enemy under Forrest, and at the request of Major L. F. Booth, 6th U. S. Heavy Artillery, C. T., then Commanding Post, it remained to assist in the defense of the Fort, when two days afterwards, viz: on the 12th of April, it was nearly annihilated, together with the other four companies, in the heartsickening butchery of our soldiers after the capture of the works by the enemy. With the capture of Fort Pillow terminates the history of this Battalion. Hardly a nucleus of the command remained after the vengeance of the rebel soldiery had been wreaked upon the brave but overpowered defenders of our flag. For ten long hours they held out against overwhelming numbers of the enemy, all the while sending death and destruction into their ranks, and repelling with terrible slaughter their repeated charges. With every temporary advantage thus obtained, cheer after cheer was sent up by the brave "boys in blue" as they beheld with infinite delight the rebel horde recoiling in confusion before their well directed fire. Finally, at about four o'clock P. M., the enemy through a violation of his flag of truce, succeeded in overpowering the garrison and compelling it to surrender. Up to this juncture only three of our officers who participated in the fight had fallen; but after the blood-thirsty barbarity of the rebels had been dealt out to their unarmed and helpless prisoners, only three of our officers were found to be alive. These were Lieut. Porter, Lieut. Logan and myself, the Adjutant of the Regiment. Lieutenants Porter and Logan soon after died, the former from his wounds and the latter by reason of his base treatment in prison at Macon, Ga. As for myself, I received a severe wound (at first considered mortal) in my right side, and it was only after several months of the most extreme pain and suffering, that I was enabled to report for duty. The little detachment of men, who, at the time of the fight, were absent from the several companies on duty, were, on the 18th day of August, 1864, consolidated into one company, per General Order No. 13, Adjutant General's office, State of Tennessee, which company by same order, was designated as Company A of the Fourteenth Regiment of Tennessee Cavalry. In this connection it may not be improper to state that up to this time, our Battalion had been known and it seems in some way, erroneously designated as the Thirteenth West Tennessee Cavalry. The Company commanded by Capt. John L. Poston is now stationed at the Tennessee Barracks in this city. Other regiments have been more fortunate, and as a consequence, have made a more extended record for themselves and the State; but none have borne themselves with a more determined spirit of courage and bravery, a truer or more patriotic devotion to their country, or, in short, have won a more brilliant record than our Battalion at Fort Pillow.

I am, Captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

MACK J. LEAMING,

Lieut. and Adjutant 14th Reg't Tenn. Cavalry.

SECOND REGIMENT CAVALRY

MEMORANDA.

[The following narrative was not received in time to be inserted with the Regimental Roll, and is therefore placed in this part of the book.]

NASHVILLE, TENN., Oct. 23, 1865.

Gen. JAMES P. BROWNLOW:

SIR: In answer to your Circular of the — inst., I have the honor, very respectfully, to submit the following brief statement, in reference to the history and services of the Second Regiment, Tennessee Volunteer Cavalry. This Regiment was organized at Cumberland Gap, in the months of August and September, 1862, under Col. D. M. Ray and Lieut.-Col. W. R. Cook, and was composed of loyal citizens of Knox, Blount, Sevier, and the surrounding counties of East Tennessee, who escaped through the Rebel lines, and after suffering a great variety of hardships and dangers, succeeded in reaching Cumberland Gap, where they enrolled their names in the Federal army. At this point twelve companies, containing an aggregate of about 1175 men, were enlisted and immediately placed on duty by General Morgan, then in command of that Post, although no arms were then to be had, except the rifles which had been brought by the men for their own protection through the mountains. Shortly after the organization of the Regiment, the movements of the Rebel army under Gens. Bragg and Kirby Smith, rendered it necessary that Cumberland Gap should be evacuated by Gen. Morgan, and much of the success of the celebrated retreat of that officer to the Ohio river, was due to the bravery and endurance of the Second Cavalry. For four hundred and fifty miles, this Regiment, although dismounted, and poorly supplied with clothing and equipments, many of the men being in their bare feet, protected the flanks and rear of the retiring column, obtaining in the meantime, but a scanty subsistence from the cornfields, which were here and there to be found in the mountainous regions of Eastern Kentucky. Shortly after its arrival at Gallipolis, Ohio, the Regiment was ordered to Louisville, Ky., where the men were mounted and partially armed with Belgian muskets, rifles and such other arms as were then to be had, and immediately took up their line of march for Nashville, to report to Gen. Rosecrans. On the arrival of the Regiment at Nashville, it was ordered to report to Gen. Stanley, then commanding the Cavalry of the Department of the Cumberland, for duty, and moved the next day with the remainder of the army upon Murfreesboro', participating in the battle of Stone River, as well as the various skirmishes which took place before and after that engagement. In the action at Stone River the Regiment lost several officers and men, who were killed, wounded or captured, but the loss of no one was more regretted than that of Capt. Morris, of Co. L, who fell during the heat of the engagement, whose noble character and excellent qualities of mind and heart, made him beloved by a large acquaintance, and who left the comforts of home, family and friends, at an age when the majority of men would have avoided the hardships of military service, in order to prove his devotion to the best interests of his country. From the 1st of January, to the 23d day of June, 1863, the Regiment, with the remainder of the Federal Cavalry under Gen. Stanley, was constantly employed on the front and flanks of Gen. Rosecrans' army, then stationed at Murfreesboro', doing severe duty, and being frequently engaged with the Rebel cavalry, then unusually strong and active, under the command of Van Dorn, Forrest, Wheeler, Morgan, Wharton and others. On the 23d of June, 1863, the Regiment moved with the army from Murfreesboro' to Tullahoma, pursuing Bragg's retreating columns across the Cumberland Mountains. On or about the 10th of July, the Regiment was ordered to report to Gen. Phil. M. Sheridan, then commanding a Division of Gen. Rosecrans' army, for special duty, and was engaged with that Division in pursuing the enemy to Bridgeport, Ala., and thence across the Tennessee River, operating on the North side of the river, between Chattanooga and Bellefonte, Ala., until about the 10th of Sept., when the Regiment rejoined the Cavalry command under Gen. Stanley, and proceeded across the Tennessee River into Northern Georgia, shortly afterwards participating in the battle of Chickamauga, and doing good service in assisting in the protection of the trains and rear of the army, as it fell back to Chattanooga. At that place, the Regiment was specially detailed to escort the Headquarters' Train of Gen. Rosecrans, from Chattanooga to Stevenson; thence was ordered to Washington and Kingston, on the Tennessee River, rendering material assistance in the defense of the latter place, when attacked by Wheeler, while Longstreet was besieging Knoxville. From Kingston the Regiment was ordered, via McMinnville, to Lebanon, and thence to Nashville. Here the Regiment was hastily refitted, and on the 24th of Dec., 1863, was ordered, via Columbia and Savannah, Tenn., and Corinth, Miss., to Memphis, to report to Gen. Wm. S. Smith, then preparing an expedition into Mississippi. In the course of that expedition, the Regiment participated with credit in several actions with the enemy, under Forrest and Stephen D. Lee, at Okolona, West Point, Tallahatchie River and elsewhere, Major W. F. Prosser, Capt. J. W. Gorman and [Lieut. J. W. Andes being specially mentioned. Returning to Memphis, the Regiment was ordered back to Nashville, arriving at that place on the 18th day of March, 1864, having, in less than three months, in the winter season, marched 900 miles, and taken part in a large number of actions and skirmishes with the enemy. During this expedition, a number of the officers and men were killed, wounded or captured, amongst others, Lieut.-Col. W. R. Cook, then in command of the Regiment, was supposed to be mortally wounded, and left in the hands of the enemy at Okolona, Miss., on the 22d day of February, 1864. Col. D. M. Ray having resigned in the preceding January, Major W. F. Prosser was commissioned Lieut.-Col., and placed in command of the Regiment on its return to Nashville. In the month of June, 1864, the 2d, 3d and 4th Regiments of Tennessee Cavalry, with Battery A, of the 1st Tennessee Light Artillery, composing the 1st Brigade, 4th Cavalry Division, Dept. of the Cumberland, were ordered to North Alabama, and remained on duty in that District until the end of the year. During this period, the Regiment was constantly engaged in scouting and skirmishing with the various commands of the enemy, under Wheeler, Forrest, Roddy and others, in that section of the country. In the month of August, the Brigade, then under the command of Lieut.-Col. Prosser, made two successful expeditions within the lines of the enemy, resulting in the capture of a large number of prisoners, horses, mules and cattle, for which the command received the thanks of the General commanding the District. During the months of September and October, the same command was frequently engaged in checking the raids of the enemy on the Railway lines, then in use by the Federal army. On the 28th of October, the Cavalry at Decatur, then under the command of Lt.-Col. Prosser, who had been detailed to command the Cavalry of the District, succeeded in checking the advance of Hood's army, on its appearance before the place, until reinforcements could be received from Huntsville and elsewhere, eventually resulting in the repulse of the enemy, who drew off, and moved down the river to Tuscumbia. In the action before Decatur, the 2d Tennessee Cavalry lost Capt. A. G. McReynolds, an excellent young officer, as well as several promising non-commissioned officers. Three weeks later, when Decatur was evacuated, and the forces in North Alabama were withdrawn to Stevenson, the duties of the Cavalry then in the District, were unusually arduous. As soon as the Infantry arrived at Stevenson, the 2d Tennessee Cavalry, with some other detachments, were ordered to Paint Rock, for the protection of the Railroad from Stevenson to Huntsville.

Subsequently, when the various points in North Alabama were re-occupied by the Federal army, the 2d Tennessee Cavalry bore a conspicuous part in many of the Cavalry engagements, which took place on both sides of the Tennessee River, more particularly at Brownsboro', at Indian Creek, at Pond Springs, in the capture of the Pontoon train of the enemy about forty miles south of Tuscumbia, and in an affair with a body of Rebel Cavalry, about twelve miles south of Moulton, Ala. At Indian Creek, a gallant and daring charge of 150 men of the 2d Tennessee Cavalry, with a small detachment of the 10th Indiana Cavalry, routed a force of the enemy four times their own number, driving them in confusion for thirteen miles, and capturing 13 officers and 60 privates, many of whom were severely wounded with the sabre, besides preventing the enemy from burning a large number of Railroad bridges, which he had intended. In the pursuit of Hood's retreating army, the command to which the 2d Cavalry was attached, marched two hundred and eighty miles, in seven days and nights of unusually severe weather, and were engaged during that time in six different actions with the enemy, capturing a large number of prisoners, and material of every description.

A detachment of the Regiment at Nashville, also did good service in the battle before the city, and in the subsequent pursuit of the Rebels. During the entire campaign, which closed with the retreat of Hood's army, the conduct of the Regiment was such, as to merit and receive the approval and commendation of all the General Officers, under which it was permitted to serve. Lt.-Col. W. Prosser; Maj. W. R. Macbeth; Capts. J. H. Byrd, A. G. McReynolds, who was killed at Decatur, and Capt. T. F. Wallace; Lieuts. R. K. Lockett, J. W. Andes, A. S. Prosser, who was wounded at Indian Creek; and Lieut. Jno. C. Hale, were specially mentioned for good behaviour on several different occasions.

About the 7th of January, 1865, the Regiment was ordered to Eastport, thence to New Orleans, thence to Vicksburg, where it remained until the month of June, when it was ordered to Nashville to be mustered out of the service.

From the time of its organization to that of its discharge, the Regiment marched and travelled over eleven thousand miles; was engaged in nine pitched battles, and about one hundred and twenty skirmishes and lesser affairs with the enemy, besides doing a vast amount of scouting, and other duty of every kind incident to the Cavalry arm of the service, which can only be estimated by those who have learned by experience in the field, the varied and laborious requirements of soldiers in active service.

On the 6th day of July, 1865, the Regiment was finally disbanded, and the officers and men who survived the hardships of the camp, and the casualties of the battle, field, were honorably discharged, and permitted to return to the homes from which they had been driven in the early part of the war, when East Tennessee was ruled by rebels, and its loyal citizens subjected to every species of cruel and barbarous treatment. Of the fifteen hundred men who were mustered into the Regiment, during its term of service, only about seven hundred and sixty remained to be discharged at the end of the war. A majority of the remainder were the victims of disease and privation, together with the actual loss in battle, and it is earnestly to be hoped, that, in the rapid current of passing events, the claims of the widows and orphans of those who sacrificed their lives in the sacred cause of the Union and Nationality, will not be overlooked or forgotten by their survivors.

Whilst other States and Districts were paying large bounties to their Volunteers, and making liberal provision for their families in their absence, no similar means were provided in this State for the benefit of those who entered the armies of the United States. On the contrary, the majority of the members of the 2d Cavalry were obliged to leave their families unprovided for, in a country harrassed by the enemy, and ravaged by the severities of war, and frequently they only made their escape, after being hunted for weeks, like wild beasts, through the mountains. No more suitable and fitting acknowledgement could be made of the services rendered by the fallen soldier, than to provide for his dependant and destitute family. The limits of this brief and imperfect sketch, will not permit that justice be rendered either the living or the dead, but the gallantry, devotion and endurance of the one, and the remembrance of the other, will long be cherished and appreciated by their admiring countrymen. The pages of history are adorned by the brilliant deeds of the sons of Tennessee, but as long as manly courage, true patriotism, and the noblest of soldierly qualities are esteemed among men, so long will the State remember with pleasure, the record made by the 2d Tennessee Cavalry.

I have the honor, General, to remain, very respectfully, your obed't serv't,

W. F. PROSSER, Colonel, 2d Tenn. Cav.

GEN. JAMES P. BROWNLOW,
Adjutant General State of Tennessee.

NOTE.—This Battery was originally mustered in as Battery D, First Tennessee Heavy Vol. Artillery. On the organization of the First Tennessee Light Artillery it was designated as Battery E, by order of Governor Johnson.

[The men enlisted for Battery "F," First Tennessee Light Artillery were transferred to Battery "A," April 13, 1864, by order of the Military Governor of Tennessee.]

MEMORANDA OF BATTERY "B."

[No memoranda of any other Battery has been furnished the Adjutants General's Office.]

Battery "B" was raised by Capt. R. C. Crawford, at Lexington, Ky., and mustered into service April 16, 1863. It was made up of East Tennessee refugees. Soon after it went to Nicholasville, Ky., for the purpose of drilling. Near the latter part of May it removed to Camp Nelson, Ky., by order of General Burnside. It removed to Somerset, Ky., July 19, 1863, and was brigaded with the Second Tennessee Mounted Infantry, Second Ohio Cavalry, and First Kentucky Cavalry, under Brig. General S. P. Carter. It repulsed the rebel forces soon afterward at Monticello, Kentucky, and at Jamestown, Tennessee. At the former place a hot engagement continued for four hours, when the rebels were utterly routed. The Battery then returned to Somerset, Kentucky, and remained there until July 5, 1863. The rebel John Morgan at that time made a raid into Kentucky for the purpose of gathering up horses and cattle. General Carter was ordered in pursuit. Battery "B," supported by a detachment of the 112th Illinois, and of the 9th Michigan Cavalry, was ordered to guard Camp Nelson. In the course of a fortnight it was ordered to Lexington, Kentucky, to guard that post from the approaching rebel forces under Generals Scott and Pegram. On the following day we were ordered in pursuit of the rebels in the direction of Winchester, Kentucky, under command of Colonel Saunders.

When our forces drew near Winchester, Col. Saunders, being in advance, found the enemy strongly situated upon a high hill. He determined to dislodge them from their strong position, and therefore immediately arrayed his command for the important work. The rebels fought most stubbornly for a short period of time; they were forced to abandon their strong position. We then pursued them to Irvine, Kentucky; we then came in contact with the rebels again. They had formed on the south side of the Kentucky River to prevent the Federal troops from crossing. Colonel Saunders made the attack on their right wing. Battery "B" was then ordered to take a position near the center; the firing continued near three hours. We dismounted one of the rebel guns, killing two and wounding three by the shot that dismounted their piece. After a serious struggle the rebels were compelled to retreat; they were repulsed and driven, sustaining great loss, owing to the rugged country over which they fled. They were still pursued, with light skirmishing, on to Lancaster, Kentucky, where the enemy made another stand. The Battery was again ordered into action upon the right wing, and opened fire on the rebels until Colonel Saunders succeeded in cutting off their rear guard; as soon as Colonel Saunders completed his work, there was a forward movement made by all the troops, capturing seventy-one rebels—the remainder were striving to make their escape toward Tennessee. We still pursued them, skirmishing lightly, on to Stanford, Kentucky, where the rebels destroyed a wagon train, numbering about seventy-five. The Battery was then ordered to Camp Nelson, Kentucky, where it arrived on the 4th of August, 1863. The command was soon fully remounted and put in readiness for immediate service, and on the 9th of August, 1863, was ordered to rejoin the Brigade at Stanford, Kentucky, for the purpose of making preparations to march into East Tennessee. On the 16th of August, 1863, it was ordered to East Tennessee. Battery "B" was ordered with the advance. We reached Lenoir's Station, on the 2d of September, 1863. General Shackleford marched his command from Lenoir's to Loudon, Tennessee, to dislodge a rebel force which was strongly situated. We arrived at Loudon about ten o'clock A. M., and opened fire on the enemy, keeping it up until 2 P. M. The rebels were forced to abandon their position, and escape in the direction of Sweetwater, Tennessee. During the conflict at Loudon the railroad bridge was burned, preventing the Federals from pursuing. General Shackleford ordered his command in the direction of Knoxville, Tennessee.

The Battery was then arrayed for a forced march to Cumberland Gap. It arrived at Cumberland Gap on the morning of the 7th of September, 1863, on the south side of Cumberland Mountain to co-operate with Brig. Gen. DeCoursey, who was on the north side of the mountain. General Shackleford immediately began a siege upon that strongly fortified position, which was occupied by the rebel troops, commanded by Gen. Frazier. After a few days Gen. Frazier, with 2,322 officers and men, made an unconditional surrender to Maj. Gen. Burnside, on the 9th day of September, 1863.

After the surrender we were ordered back to Knoxville, where we arrived on the 14th of September. The Battery was again ordered in pursuit of the rebels up the East Tennessee and Virginia Railroad. It continued skirmishing daily until the siege of Knoxville. Being cut off from all supplies, we were forced to make our way to Cumberland Gap; arrived there 18th of November 1863; went into garrison and remained until 20th of May, 1865. A detachment of thirty men of the Battery was mounted and placed under the command of Lieut. David F. Manly. While up the Virginia Valley, one mile above Ball's Bridge, it was attacked by a force of fifty rebels. Lieut. Manly and his little band put the rebels to flight, killing several.

We remained at Cumberland Gap until the 20th of May, 1865; we were then ordered to Strawberry Plains, Tenn.—arrived there on the 23d of May. Capt. W. O. Beebe, of Battery "B", assumed command of the post at Strawberry Plains; we remained there until the 6th of July, 1865—were then ordered to Nashville, Tennessee, to be mustered out.

THE ROLL OF HONOR.

While in command of the Department of the Cumberland in 1863, Major General Rosecrans published a "ROLL OF HONOR," made up of the names of officers and privates who had distinguished themselves by meritorious services on the field, and endeavored to form a separate military organization upon that basis. The plan was not approved by the War Department, which doubtless believed that the army would be more efficient if its good material was equally distributed, than if it were concentrated in a single organization. The rejection of the plan proposed by General Rosecrans, will account for the absence of the names of many other brave and well-deserving officers and soldiers from the following Roll, which is published simply as a Complimentary Order. The Roll comprehends only the few Tennessee Regiments Which were present at the battle of Murfreesboro.

Whole number of Tennessee dead, 810. No less than 12,920 Union soldiers perished in the Andersonville prison, within whose fatal enclosure for the term of thirteen months 30,000 prisoners were confined, on twenty-six acres of ground, without shelter or blankets. The annals of the Andersonville prison will be forever one of the darkest pages in American history.

GENERAL ORDERS.

HEAD QUARTERS 25TH BRIG., ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Cumberland Gap, Tennessee, August 29, 1862.

General Order, }
No. 269. } The following General Order from Head Quarters 7th Division Army of the Ohio, No. 79, was received, viz: On yesterday, for the first time during the organization of this Division, a flag was captured from the enemy at Baptist Gap, the honor of which achievement belongs to a detachment composed of troops from the First and Second Tennessee, under Captains Myers and Robins, to whom, and to their commands, great credit is due; and the Commanding General congratulates them upon the honor won by them for their Regiments on this and many other occasions. Lieut. Canady Rogers and Corporal Reynolds rendered important services.

By command of General Morgan.

HEAD QUARTERS 25TH BRIG., ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Cumberland Gap, Tennessee, September 1, 1862

General Order, }
No. 279. } The following General Order, No. 83, was received from Division Commander, to-wit:

A detachment of sixty men, taken from the First and Second Tennessee Regiments, under Captain Myers, in the short space of fifty-four hours, performed a most difficult march of sixty miles, surprised one of the enemy's outposts, killed six and wounded six or eight of the rebels, captured nineteen prisoners—one of them a Captain; also, thirty horses and their equipments, including guns and sabres, without the loss of a single man. This achievement is worthy of all praise, and the more so as it was performed by a handful of the ten thousand brave men of this Division, who the rebels have declared to be prisoners of war. The Commanding General returns his sincere thanks to Captain Myers, Lieut. Canady Rogers and their gallant command.

By command of General Morgan.

HEAD QUARTERS 25TH BRIG., ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Cumberland Gap, September 5, 1862.

General Order, }
No. 287. } The Commanding General has received General Order, No. 85, from Head-quarters of Brig. Gen Morgan, as follows:

Soldiers! Unlike the rebel commanders, I have full confidence in the intelligence as in the devoted courage of the brave men who compose the rank and file, and as to brothers and friends, I communicate to you all the important movements of the opposing armies. As you are aware, soldiers, General Smith lately crossed into Kentucky with an army of twenty-five thousand men, who were met at Big Hill by a little army composed of ten thousand Kentuckians, Indianians and Ohioans, and after a gallant struggle, which lasted for three days, our forces fell back to the Kentucky river, where they met a large reinforcement under General Nelson, and on Wednesday were again gallantly fighting. You will be glad to learn that our brave comrades of the Third Kentucky and Munday's Cavalry participated in the fight and covered themselves with glory. Now, soldiers, you are about to be called upon to prove that you possess the highest attributes of courage, endurance and fatigue. If you are true to yourselves and to our cause you will receive the thanks and admiration of the Nation. Let it be your pride, soldiers, to preserve this mountain stronghold to the Union, and though Tennessee, Kentucky and Virginia should be over run for a time by the foe, let us guard one sacred spot on the soil of each of these States, over which the Stars and Stripes shall defiantly wave.

By command of General Morgan.

HEAD QUARTERS 1ST BRIGADE, E. T. VOL. FORCES,
Cumberland Gap, September 17, 1862.

General Order, }
No. 310. } The General Commanding has just received General Order
No. 95 from Brig. Gen. Morgan, as follows:

General Orders, }
No. 95. } Soldiers! You will all be glad to learn that you are to be relieved from the sluggish duty of garrison, to enter upon an active campaign. Three months ago, the enemy, who now lie hidden in the woods, fled from this stronghold, upon your advance, supposing that you would be equally frightened by the approach of a foe. More than a month ago they besieged you and proclaimed to the world that you were already prisoners. What has already been the result? You sent the command of Gerard and Munday to rid your friends of menaced danger by an overwhelming force; and yet the enemy does not attack you; afterward you sent a brigade a distance of sixty miles to procure supplies, and still the enemy slumbered upon his arms. You have made four successful attacks upon the mountain gaps, captured Barbourville, and London; made five hundred prisoners and killed and wounded one hundred and eighty of the enemy without the loss of a single man. But you can no longer wait to coax the enemy to unfurl his colors. A more glorious field awaits you, and in rushing the enemy in Kentucky you give freedom to Tennessee. I know well, soldiers, you will be patient under difficulties, and heroic in danger—that you will prove yourselves worthy of belonging to the great army of the Union.

GEORGE W. MORGAN,

Brigadier General Commanding.

HEAD QUARTERS 25TH BRIG., ARMY OF THE OHIO,
Cumberland Gap, September 10, 1862.

General Order, }
No. 294. } The following order has just been received from Head-quarters of Brig. Gen. Morgan, relative to the action at Big Hill on the 23d of August, 1862, to-wit:

HEAD QUARTERS OF THE ARMY OF KENTUCKY,
Richmond, Kentucky, August 26, 1862.

General Order, } "Extract."
No. 2. } On Saturday, the 23d inst., the 7th Kentucky Cavalry, under Colonel Metcalf, together with a battalion of Houk's Third Tennessee Regiment, under Lieut.-Col. Childs, were attacked by the enemy on Big Hill, in Rockcastle county. Colonel Metcalf led the attack with much gallantry, but had the mortification to find that not more than one hundred of his Regiment followed him, the remainder, at the first cannon-shot, turned tail and fled like a pack of cowards, and are now dispersed over half a dozen counties, some fleeing as far as Paris.

The conduct of the Tennessee Battalion, under Lieut. Col. Childs, presents a refreshing contrast to the foregoing. They met the enemy bravely, checked his advance, rescued Col. Metcalf, abandoned by his Regiment, and though too few to retrieve the action at best, saved the honor of our arms. Lieut. Col. Childs will accept the thanks of the Major General, and convey to his officers and soldiers his high appreciation of their gallantry and good behavior.

By order of Major General Nelson, Commanding.

[Signed,] J. MILLS KENDRICK, A. A. G. & Chief of Staff.

General Morgan congratulates the Tennessee troops on the gallantry of their comrades of the Third Tennessee.

By command of General Morgan.

CHAS. O. JOLINE, A. A. G.

The above information and orders are, with pleasure and pride, published to the troops of the 25th Brigade. All honor is due to Col. Childs, and his brave men, and officers of the Third Regiment, and their example is worthy of imitation

By command of General Spears.

D. C. TREWHITT, A. A. G.

HEAD QUARTERS 1ST BRIG., E. T. VOLS., FORCES OF THE U. S.,
Cumberland Gap, September 13, 1862.

General Orders, }
No. 302. } The Commanding General publishes for the information and satisfaction of this Brigade, the following order, issued by Brig. General Morgan, as follows:

HEAD QUARTERS FORCES OF THE UNITED STATES,
Cumberland Gap, September 12, 1862.

General Order, }
No. 88. } The Commanding General has again the pleasure of announcing to his troops the achievements of a handful of their comrades at Big Creek and Rogers' Gaps, on the 8th inst. After having blockaded the approaches to Big Creek Gap, Col. Cooper, with a force consisting of four hundred men of the Third, Fourth, Fifth and Sixth Regiments Tennessee Volunteers, met and routed a force of the enemy's cavalry—killed several, and captured ninety-five prisoners, eighty-seven horses and mules, with a quantity of arms and equipments, and a rebel mail which was being taken to Kentucky on the same day. Lieut. Col. Phillips, of the First Tennessee Regiment, with a detachment of his Regiment, successfully blockaded Rogers' Gap. Cois. Cooper and Phillips speak in the highest terms of the gallantry of their officers and men. The Commanding General congratulates the Tennessee troops on the new laurels won by their comrades.

By command of General Morgan.

[Signed,]

CHAS. O. JOLINE, A. A. G.

It is with pride and pleasure that the Commanding General publishes the above order. It is a source of pleasure to him to bestow his thanks and praise upon Col. Cooper and the brave officers and men of his command, who so gallantly and conspicuously achieved the victory at Big Creek Gap. The Commanding General gives them all praise and honor.

By command of General Spears.

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, STATE OF TENNESSEE,
Nashville, June 10, 1865.

General Order, }
No. 2. } I. Much confusion and misunderstanding having arisen from the designations of the Tennessee Regiments, organized, as these Regiments were, of refugees beyond the limits of their own State, and at points distant from each other, it is ordered that the Regiments from Tennessee be designated as follows:
First Tennessee Infantry, Col. Byrd, formerly First East Tennessee Infantry.
Second " " Col. Carter, " Second " " "
Third " " Col. Cross, " Third " " "
Fourth " " Col. Stover, " Fourth " " "
Fifth " " Col. Shelley, " Fifth " " "
Sixth " " Col. Cooper, " Sixth " " "
Seventh " " Col. Cliff, " Seventh " " "
Eighth " " Col. Reeve, " Eighth " " "
Ninth " " Col. Rogers, " First West " " Tenth " " Col. Gillem, " First Middle " "

First Tennessee Cavalry,	Col. Johnson,	formerly First	East Tennessee Cavalry
Second " "	Col. Ray, "	Second " "	" "
Third " "	Col. Pickens, "	Third " "	" "
Fourth " "	Maj. Stephens "	Fourth " "	" "
Fifth " "	Col. Stokes, "	First Middle " "	" "
Sixth " "	Col. Hurst, "	First West " "	" "
Seventh " "	Col. Hawkins "	Second " "	" "
Eighth " "	Col. Strickland.
Ninth " "	Col. Parsons.
Tenth " "	Col. Bridges.

II. All Regiments, Companies and Battalions will receive their designations from this office

By order of Governor Andrew Johnson.

[Signed,]

ALVAN C. GILLEM,
Colonel and Adjutant General of Tennessee.

STATE OF TENNESSEE, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
Nashville, Tennessee, August 1, 1864.

Ordered, I. That General Alvan C. Gillem, Adjutant General of Tennessee, be assigned to the command of the troops known as the "Governor's Guard."

II. That First Lieut. Edward S. Richards is announced as Assistant Adjutant General of the State of Tennessee, and be obeyed and respected accordingly. Lieut. Richards will establish his office in this city.

III. It is further ordered that General Alvan C. Gillem proceed with the Ninth and Thirteenth Regiments of Tennessee Cavalry, and Batteries E and G First Tennessee Light Artillery, to East Tennessee, and under such orders as he shall from time to time receive from this office, kill or drive out all bands of lawless persons, or bands which now infest that portion of the State. It is not to be understood that this order shall prevent General Gillem, whenever he shall deem it feasible or expedient, from pursuing said bands of outlaws beyond the limits of the State. General Gillem is further authorized, under such instructions as he shall receive from this office, to take such measures as are deemed expedient to re-establish order and enforce civil law, to which end General Gillem will lend every assistance in his power to the regularly constituted civil authorities.

All the organized Regiments of Tennessee troops, being raised in East Tennessee, to serve for one year or longer, will obey the orders of General Gillem, who is authorized to organize such new Regiments as may be deemed expedient.

Officers of the Commissary and Quartermaster's Department will furnish the necessary supplies upon the requisition of General Gillem.

[Signed,]

ANDREW JOHNSON,
Brigadier General and Military Governor of Tennessee.

RESOLUTION OF THANKS TO MAJOR GENERAL STONEMAN.

Resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Tennessee:

That the thanks of the loyal people of the State are due to Major General George Stoneman, for the great skill and success with which he conducted his two great raids into Virginia and North Carolina, by which he destroyed millions of dollars' worth of the enemy's means of warfare, capturing many of their forces and eventually crippling them in their operations; and that he has our thanks for the ability and success with which he has conducted military operations in East Tennessee; and that he be furnished with a copy of this resolution, officially signed.
